

ALDERMEN.

Mayor Asks for More Money for Hospital and Interest.

Street Railway Deposit on Boylston Street Reduced to $2500.

The regular meeting of the board of aldermen was held on Monday evening, Vice President Carter in the chair.

Present Aldermen Baker, Barber, Bishop, Bowen, Brown, Cabot, Denison, Ellis, Ensign, Hunt, Johnson, Mellen, Webster, Weston and White.

COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE MAYOR

To the Board of Aldermen.
Gentlemen:
Out of respect for the memory of the late Senator George F. Hoar, the flags on the City buildings were placed at half mast upon receiving information of his death, and the City Hall was closed during the hour of his funeral.

It is unnecessary for me to direct your attention to his long and distinguished career. Perhaps no other statesman of the present time has stood more consistently for the best traditions of the political life of this country. In common with the rest of the Commonwealth which he so long and ably represented in the Councils of the nation, it seems fitting that the citizens of Newton through your Board should express their sorrow at the close of his life of high-minded devotion to the public welfare and their appreciation of his character and achievements.

Respectfully submitted,
Alonzo R. Weed, Mayor.

Received and a select committee consisting of Aldermen Mellen, Bishop and Denison appointed to prepare suitable resolutions and to report at the next meeting of the board.

Relative to adjusting matter of land damages with the Boston and Worcester Street Railway Company, reducing amount of security held by City from $10,000 to $2,500 and suggesting that City Clerk notify abutters on Boylston street as to awards made on account of widening. Referred to Committee on Finance.

Relative to an additional appropriation of $1100 for Health Dept. Contagious diseases. Referred to Finance Committee.

Relative to additional appropriation of $3500 for interest on temporary loans. Referred to Committee on Finance.

Relative to offer of $1000 from Edison Electric Illuminating Co for pole rights across city lands in Needham. Referred to Committee on Public Franchises, etc.

FROM CITY OFFICERS.

The report of the Street Commissioner that Broadway had been completed under the betterment act at a cost of $154.41 was referred to the Committee on Public Works.

JURORS DRAWN.

Alderman Ellis at the request of the President drew these names for service in the Supreme Judicial Court: Lewis C. Melcher, Bowen St. William C. Strong, Erie ave.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

To the Committee on Public Works: M. H. Gulesian for sewer in Commonwealth ave. N. and W. Gas Light Co et al for sewer in Homer st.

To the Committee on Public Franchises, etc.

J. G. Kilburn, J. H. Green, J. F. Payne and J. T. Waterhouse for 6th Class Liquor licenses: Leonard Worcester to keep an Intelligence office: Frederick A. Bronkie for license for a dance hall, Jacob Kligman for a junk license, N. and W. Gas Light Co for attachments on Commonwealth ave. N. E. Tel. and Tel. Co. for attachments on Erie ave.

PETITIONS REFUSED.

Petition of F. Negrotti for a Common Victualer license was refused after Alderman Denison had explained the conditions, and Alderman Cabot had expressed the opinion that the granting of such license would not create any nuisance in that locality.

Petition of H. Sperman for a junk license was refused without debate.

On motion of Alderman Hunt the vote whereby a wagon license had been refused to John P. McGill was reconsidered, Alderman Hunt expressing the opinion that the board had done the applicant a great injustice. The license was then granted.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

These reports were received:

Committee on Public Works: Recommending sewer construction in Waverley ave: the taking of land for sewer in Sullivan ave, and recommending the assessment of certain betterments on Broadway.

Committee on Public Franchises, etc: Recommending granting pole locations on Stearns st, and Bowers st, and certain attachments on Temple st, Langley road and Nevada st, to the N. E. Tel. and Tel. Co: recommending granting the N. and W. Gas Light Co pole locations on Madison ave, Temple st, Fuller st, and attachments on Hillside ave, Warren st, and Lowell ave.

And at 8:50 p. m. the board adjourned.

Silver Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards Fisher celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at their home on Webster street last Saturday evening. They were assisted in receiving by Deacon and Mrs. R. V. C. Emerson of Newton, parents of Mrs. Fisher, who celebrated their 50th anniversary five years ago. From 8 to 10 o'clock a large number of relatives and friends called to extend congratulations and best wishes and the host and hostess were the recipients of many appropriate gifts. The ushers were Messrs W. B. Davis, W. F. Chase, Arthur Davis and Lawrence Bond. In the dining room the tables were presided over by the Misses Emily F. Emerson, Helen Davis, Eva Sanderson, Miss Pike and others. Mr. Fisher was for many years treasurer of the Second Congregational Church of West Newton and is a member of the Northgate Club.

CAZMAY-STILES.

The many friends of Miss Lucy M. A. Stiles for many years the cashier and book keeper at Hubbard's drug store will be interested to learn of her marriage on Tuesday evening of last week to Mr. Thomas Wilson Cazmay of West Newton. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride, 10 Riverside street Watertown, and was performed by Rev. Frank B. Matthews, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church of this city. The bride who wore a simple dress of white silk with the conventional veil, was attended by her sister Miss Henrietta L. Stiles, as maid of honor. Mr. Chas. D. Cazmay, brother of the groom was the best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Cazmay will reside at 10 Riverside st, Watertown and will be at home to their friends on Tuesday, Oct. 11th.

O'DONNELL-LOVELLY.

A very brilliant autumn wedding took place at the Church of Our Lady, Newton, Sunday afternoon, when Miss Anna M. Lovelly became the bride of James A. O'Donnell, both of Newton, the Rev. Jas. Gilfeather officiating.

The bride looked very pretty in a gown of ashes of roses nun's veiling over silk and wore a large picture hat of the same shade. The bridesmaid, Miss Martha G. Stumpf of Newton, wore a gown of chestnut brown taffeta silk with trimmings of deep orange french dots and a large picture hat of the same shade as her dress.

The groom was attended by James Sylvester Cannon of Newton as best man. The bride received a gorgeous array of beautiful and valuable presents. Soon after a reception at the home of the bride Mr. and Mrs. O'Donnell left for Eastport, Me.

SINGLE TAX.

Recent Speech of John G. White of Chicago.

We propose to abolish all taxes now levied upon industry. To provide public revenue, we would levy all taxes upon land value.

In support of this proposal we point to certain facts of civilized life—namely, that private property in land is necessary to a high civilization; that private property in land causes a division of the products of industry a part going to producers (wages) and a part going to land owners (rent): that to keep the peace, etc. government is necessary; that taxes must be collected to support government; that taxes must be levied on either rent or wages.

A high civilization can be attained only by large production. Large production follows great effort which is induced only by securing the product to the toiler. This security can be achieved only by private property in land. If it be urged that tenants are secure, though not owners, we reply that their security results from the institution of private property in land through lease from owners.

It should be noted that the term: "private property in land" as commonly understood contains two ideas first exclusive possession—its proper meaning—second appropriate rent—which results from unjust taxation, not from private property in land.

Taxes levied upon industry fall upon wages in so far as producers are consumers; and in so far as rent is not taxed it is appropriated as an unearned income. This fact leads to land speculation (holding land vacant in anticipation of future rent) which causes an artificial demand for land, and rent thus rises above the normal level—and, of course, wages are in like degree depressed.

Normal rent is the premium that superior sites command. Speculative rent is the additional premium resulting from withholding valuable land from use. Taxes levied upon industry relieve rent (land value) from public burden, and it is then appropriated and land speculation develops. Meanwhile wages are reduced by the amount of the tax, plus business profits on the handling of the tax. Most of our present taxes are of this nature.

Normal rent it will be observed is not a burden upon wages for such rent is but the premium for superior sites and wages is the amount produced by toil upon the most available land that commands no premium. Placing all taxes upon land value will leave to industry its entire product and will avoid speculation in land which will leave rent at its normal or economic amount.

Remitting taxes now levied upon industry will increase wages by the amount of such relief. Avoiding speculation in land will increase wages by the amount of artificial or speculative rent, and will also increase wages by allowing labor to be employed at points of higher productivity—in other words, at greater profit.

This increase in wages, or profit, must appear as increased demand for products, and increased demand for products is nothing other than increased demand for labor.

If abolishing taxes on industry will raise wages, if levying taxes on land value will raise wages; if avoiding speculation in land will raise wages; are we not justified in our sanguine anticipation of the benefits to follow the adoption of the single tax? If wages rise will not "business" prosper? Does not our national prosperity necessarily find its permanent foundation in wages? If labor be not prosperous, ought prosperity to be found elsewhere?

It will be observed that land and labor are natural facts. Rent and taxes are social facts. These facts must be dealt with they cannot be avoided. There is a right course in all activities—it leads to happiness. There is also a wrong course—it leads to misery. Which is the world achieving? Which do you prefer?

The program for the annual convention of the Massachusetts Sunday School Association in Newton, October 18 to 20, contains the names of many noted speakers.

The first of October the general triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church convened in Boston, bringing to Massachusetts many divines who are high in the councils of the denomination. This fact has been taken into consideration in making up the program for the Sunday School convention in Newton, and among the noted speakers secured are Bishop Charles H. Brent of the Philippines and Bishop Lucien Lee Kin-sobling of Brazil. Bishop Kinsobling was heard with much interest in this vicinity Sunday.

Other speakers scheduled to deliver addresses are Ira Landrith, D. D. of Chicago, secretary of the Religious Education Association; Rev. J. T. McFarland, secretary of the Sunday School Union of the M. E. church; Mrs. H. Elizabeth Foster of New York, who is prominent in Sunday School work; Rev. E. Y. Mullins, D. D., president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville, Ky.; Bishop Daniel A. Goodsell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church; President Harris of Amherst College; President Hazard of Wellesley College and Miss Margaret M. Slattery of Fitchburg.

A pleasing feature of the convention will be the college conferences, which will be presided over by prominent educators.

OUR ANCESTORS.

Their Lives, Words and Deeds Fittingly Eulogized.

Interesting Sermon by Rev. E. M. Noyes of the First Church.

John 4:38.—"I sent you to reap that whereon ye have not labored: others have labored, and ye are entered into their labor."

We are gathered here today to commemorate the organization of this church 240 years ago. The precise date was July 20, 1664, old style, but it seemed wiser to delay this observance until after the vacation season and the dedication of this new house of worship.

As our minds turn toward the past, it is fitting that our thoughts should be guided by these words of our Lord to His disciples. They assert the fundamental principle of human progress. No individual begins his own life or work. He inherits life not only from his immediate parents, but riots have dared and suffered, statesmen and jurists have given their patient study and have dared the wrath of kings and mobs, and thousands of martyrs have poured out their lives in willing sacrifice. We walk upon an earth consecrated by the vicarious toll of all the former generations. Others have labored and suffered, and their labor and suffering was for us.

But all were to no profit had not man the power to enter into their labors. This is man's distinguishing characteristic. He is the animal that remembers and transmits accumulated experience. The bee has marvellous intelligence. But the bee of today is not a whit in advance of the bee faithful men and women who lived and labored here in former days. Many a man who neglects or rejects the faith of the fathers is unconscious how much he owes of his accepted principles of living to those sturdy believers of the past. That which is second nature to him was their achievement. It is our grateful task today to consider some of the characteristics of his progressive life as illustrated in the history of this church. When the 225th anniversary was celebrated, in October, 1889, the detailed history was presented in discourses by Dr. Furber, Mr. Holmes and in the addresses of the other speakers. So thoroughly and adequately was this done, and so admirable is the memorial preserved in the printed volume which records that celebration, that there is little left for me to glean. It would be ungracious to weary you with needless repetition. But let me remark, in passing over these details, that it would be a worthy task for this church to collect and preserve, as far as possible, the memorials of its history. The first church in Cambridge, our mother church, has an historical society, which has secured a valuable collection of historical documents. Dr. Furber's anniversary sermon alludes to writings by Dr. Homer. One of the treasures of the Boston Public Library is a rare volume by John Cotton, the third pastor of this church. The published sermons of Nehemiah Hobart, the second minister, were highly esteemed and of great influence in the colonies. In 1707 this church received from Hon. Samuel Holden, of London, the gift of the practical works of Richard Baxter in four massive volumes, which were still in our possession in 1889. I have never seen any of these books, and probably few of you have. Would it not be wise to gather together such historical memorials and preserve them in some fitting place where they may be seen and studied.

But while I may not enter into the detailed history of these 240 years, I do desire to remind you of certain permanent characteristics of the life of this church for a church is like an individual; its character persists from year to year in spite of outward changes. Certain traits which were prominent in its early days have marked its whole career and still are easily discernible. In mechanics we are taught that a body set in motion tends to follow the initial direction in a straight line unless diverted by some new and more powerful force. And this church has tended to follow the initial direction given it by those sturdy pioneers who first settled these fertile valleys.

First: Their fidelity to the truth as they conceived it. This intensity of conviction of that which they regarded as truth, with the accompanying purpose to maintain, defend and affirm is the most striking element in the spirit and temper of the Puritans and Pilgrims. The forms of statement have varied during these two centuries and a half but through all the philosophical, theological and political storms of this long period of time, this church has been marked by steadfastness and earnestness of conviction. The early settlers were men of unusual force and culture. Living in the vicinity of Harvard College, and for some years worshipping in Cambridge, and having for their pastors men prominent in the intellectual life of the day, they were trained to logical thought and positive convictions. They believed much and they believed deeply. There was no room for indifference to religious matters in the days when they formed so largely the theme of conversation and controversy. The doctrinal belief of the founders of this church was thoroughly Calvinistic. They assented to the Westminster Confession in 1648 and adopted the Savoy Confession, which stated practically the same doctrines, in 1680. In 1770 and again in 1781, there are solemn votes of the church recorded, in which it is said of the faith of the New England churches, "We will stand by, maintain, and if need be contend for this faith, and if any among us should go about to undermine it, we will bear a due testimony against them." When the great Unitarian controversy arose and out of 361 Congregational churches in Massachusetts, 96 became Unitarian, and 30 more were so nearly so that those who held to the old faith were compelled to withdraw and form new organizations, this church and its daughter in West Newton adhered to the doctrines of the fathers. This is more remarkable when you remember the strength of the local influence. All the Boston churches but one became Unitarian, and the neighboring churches in Roxbury, Dorchester, Watertown, Waltham, Dedham, Brookline and Brighton. In 1828 a committee of three, consisting of William Jackson, Elijah P. Woodward and Asa Cook, presented a report to the church on a case of discipline, in which those members were severely censured who were in the habit of leaving their own meeting on the Sabbath and going "to places where the fundamental truths of the Gospel, as embraced by this church are opposed and denied, where they who preach declare there is no need of a radical change of heart, that Christ did not die to atone for our sins, and that he is not God, and that all will be saved, both righteous and wicked." After a second reading and some discussion, this report was adopted unanimously. There is justice in Dr. Furber's comment, in his historical discourse:—"It has been said by some that if Dr. Homer had become a Unitarian, he would probably have carried the church with him. This vote does not look as if he would." All of the ministers have been men in sympathy with the evangelical faith of their day, and the people have heartily sustained such a ministry. They have sought such men as leaders and have kept them in office for long periods. Seven of the ten ministers of this parish were ordained here, and six finished their work here and are buried among the people they loved and served.

We are come into a new world of thought. What shall we say of the Calvinism of our fathers? The historians are ready enough now to praise its political and social influence. David Hume, no partial critic, says that England owes all the liberty she has to the Puritans. James Anthony Froude, in what is perhaps his most familiar essay, has exhibited the mighty leverage of this faith, lifting the world to a new ideal of civil liberty. John Fiske calls the theology of Calvin one of the longest steps that mankind ever took toward personal freedom. However unattractive some of its tenets it was a tremendous power in the creation of the modern world. But what of it as a system of religious belief, a discipline for the soul? It certainly made stalwart Christians, and bold thinkers. Those who fed on its strong meat were men indeed. No theme was too high or profound for their discussion. (Continued on page 6.)

as his body in its prenatal months retraces the physical development of human life from the lowest forms upward, so in his mental and spiritual nature he is an epitome of all history. He comes into a world where he is surrounded on every hand with blessings won for him by centuries of struggle. The very language that he speaks is the record of human thought. The car on which he rides is the net results of centuries of slow and painful experiment from the days of the Pharaohs. A poet once slept in St. Peter's and in his dream saw the shadowy forms of all the builders from time's beginnings standing about him and showing each his contribution to the great temple of Brant and Michel Angelo. So modest a building as this where we worship today requires the accumulated wisdom of many generations. One age offers the arch over the door or window; another brings glass; another nails whose drowsy hum was heard among the sweet clover of Hymettus in the days of Pericles. Each generation of bees advances through the same cycle, reach the same degree of perfection, and dies without advancing its kind or leaving any store of wisdom or power to its successors. But man, feeblest of creatures at his birth, is able to remember, transmit, record, and from the accumulated experience of the race formulate laws and principles of action. And thus from generation to generation he advances slowly but surely, leaving ever to his posterity an increasing store of accumulated capital for ampler living and greater achievement. He alone knows the value of yesterday. He alone can gather its treasures and invest them for the enrichment of tomorrow.

This principle of human progress holds true not only in the spheres of physical invention, material gain and

and hinges and structural iron and steel; another carpets and tapestries; while far remote from these in time are those who first taught us how to make books and organs.

The institutions of society are the crystallizations of human struggle and achievement. Your daily paper with its free expression of opinion you owe to John Milton with his famous play, "Give me liberty to know, to utter and to argue freely according to conscience, above all other liberties," as much as to the printing press and the telegraph. How much of the struggle for liberty is embodied in the daily proceedings of our courts of law! For the common rights, privileges, conveniences and luxuries of our daily life, philosophers have toiled in thought, inventors have wrought amid discouragements, pat-intellectual advance, but it is especially true of moral and spiritual achievement, a region where its influence is not always so clearly recognized. Pascal remarks that all human generations must be thought of as one man, always living, always learning. His teachers have been many and diverse but the most important have been those who have labored for his moral and religious welfare, delivering his soul from fear and falsehood and raising it up to fellowship with God. It is a noble company, from the mother into whose hands the tender beginnings of life are committed, through every faithful teacher and holy example up through prophet and martyr even to our Lord Jesus Christ Himself. The moral and religious life of this community is an inheritance from the

The twelfth Congressional district
has reflected great credit upon itself in the recent overwhelming vote in favor of nominating the Hon. John W. Weeks of Newton for Congress.
The preliminary canvass is also highly creditable to Capt. Weeks' friends who have labored long and earnestly for the present result. To those who know the candidate, these sincere and hearty labors of his friends do not occasion surprise, as Captain Weeks is one who not only makes friends quickly, but inspires them with a devotion which is enthusiastic and lasting.

With a united and harmonious party behind him Captain Weeks will enter a Congress where we confidently expect him to add new laurels to the already brilliant record of the 12th Massachusetts district.

It is a singular fact that Capt.
Weeks has been nominated for the various positions of alderman, mayor and congressman, by the same person, ex-alderman George Hutchinson of West Newton. It is a rare combination of worthy gentlemen.

For a novice in political affairs Mr.
Simpson certainly made a splendid showing in the Councillor convention this week. Only an unfortunate and unforeseen circumstance caused his defeat.

DEATH OF MRS. RUBY M. BURRAGE.

Mrs. Ruby M. Burrage wife of Herbert E. Burrage died at her home on Prince street, after a long illness, Sunday, aged 65 years. She was the daughter of the Hon. Francis Childs, formerly of Charlestown. She had been a resident of Newton for many years, and while a woman of quiet domestic tastes still was active in charitable work and in the interests of the Unitarian church of which she was a member. Her husband, one daughter Alice and two sons Francis J. and Harry L. Burrage survive
her. Funeral services were held from the house Wednesday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock Rev. Julian C. Jaynes officiating and the interment was in Newton cemetery.

City Hall Notes.

City Hall was closed last Monday afternoon during Senator Hoar's funeral.

WILLIAMSON-SCOTT.

At the Church of the Messiah, Auburndale, on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock, in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends, Miss Hannah M. Scott of Dayton, O., was married to Mr. Arthur H. Williamson of Minneapolis. The bride who wore a gown of lavender veiling was attended by Mrs. Clarence B. Ashenden of Dallas, Texas, as matron of honor, dressed in white dotted mull, and was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr.
Richard Ashenden of Auburndale.
Rev. John Matteson officiated and the guests were seated by Messrs Arthur Ashenden and B. K. Brown, the ushers.

After a short wedding trip, Mr.
and Mrs. Williamson will reside at Minneapolis.

HUNT-HUESTIS.

Miss Ethel W. Huestis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huestis of Auburndale and well known in musical circles of Boston and Newton, having graduated with highest honors at the N. E. Conservatory of Music in 1898, became the bride of Mr. George E. Hunt of Boston last Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock at the Church of the Messiah by Rev. John Matteson, the chancel being banked with palms and ferns and hydrangeas and the altar decorated with roses.

The bride, gowned in white crepe de chine heavily embroidered and trimmed with lace and carrying a bouquet of lilies of the valley, was accompanied by Miss Esther Pastene of Dorchester as maid of honor, dressed in pink silk muslin over pink tulle, and given away by her father.
A largely attended reception followed at the home of the bride, Messrs Forest Whitney and Thomas
Austin of Dorchester, Walter Powell of Allston and Dr. S. J. McDonald of Brighton being the ushers.

After an extended wedding trip through the south, Mr. and Mrs.
Hunt will reside at Riverbank Court, Cambridge.

NEWTON MEN

Named in the Republican Conventions.

It will be Congressman Weeks and Senator Dana.

The City of Newton has been greatly interested in the political conventions of the republican party during the present week, as it has presented its citizens for nomination in the councillor, congressional and senatorial conventions. In two, its candidates were successful, and the third was lost after a strong fight had been waged.

COUNCILLOR.

The first convention of the week
was that of the third district Councillor, held at Wesleyan Hall, Boston,
on Monday afternoon. Here Mr. G.
Fred Simpson of Newton, whose candidacy had received the cold shoulder early in the fall from some of the party stalwarts in this city, had the solid support of the 23 delegates from Newton. His name was presented to the convention by Rev. A. L. Hudson in an eloquent speech. Mr. Warren W. Rawson of Arlington was placed in nomination by Hon. Fred W. Dal-linger in a most forceful speech to which the Simpson men neglected to reply. This fact, together with the open hostility of the district committee, resulted in a defection from the pledged supporters of Mr. Simpson of enough delegates to give the nomination to Mr. Rawson by a vote of 114 to 81.

CONGRESSIONAL.

On Tuesday the twelfth congressional convention met at noon in Wesleyan Hall, Boston, and speedily ratified the result of the caucuses of the week before which produced 103 delegates for Ex-mayor John W.
Weeks of Newton to 22 for Senator A.
F. Bemis of Foxboro.

The convention was called to order
by Seward W. Jones of Newton, chairman of the district committee
and Mr. William H. Pond of North Attleboro was elected chairman. 118 delegates out of 125 were announced as present by the committee on credentials and ex-alderman George Hutchinson then nominated Captain Weeks.

Mr. Hutchinson said:
"We are assembled to choose a republican candidate whom we have every reason to suppose will become the next representative in Congress from the twelfth district, and I request you to unite and select as this candidate the Hon. John W. Weeks of Newton."

"We who are especially interested in the industries and commerce of New England fully realize that we are to a very great degree dependent upon National legislation. Dependent upon the laws which govern our imports and exports, our financial institutions, our harbors, transportation interests and kindred matters."

"Through the organization known as the republican party we believe it is possible to attain the best results and hence we are republicans, but both the organization and the results are beneficial only in proportion to the quality of the men available, and of those who by the exercise of our best judgment are selected for the important positions of trust."

"The qualifications of John W.
Weeks I regard as most exceptional,
his age, experience, ability, temperament and sterling traits of character commend him as a candidate of whom we should be justly proud and for whom we should be deeply grateful."

"John W. Weeks may always be depended upon to enter upon his duties, of whatever nature, with a broad receptive mind, clear conceptions and with a courage which is possible only when one is a manly man with the well established habit of doing his own thinking."

"When we place such men in office
we do well, when we fail to do so we weaken our whole structure."

"As his neighbor I assure you that Capt. Weeks is with honor in his own City, no one more so, and to know him is to repose in him absolute confidence."

"Let us then select him as our candidate assured that by this action the Country will be well served, the District well represented and our duty well performed."

Mr. Hutchinson's speech was received with great enthusiasm, and after a second by Mr. B. F. Boyden of Foxboro, the nomination was made by acclamation. Mr. Hutchinson was chairman of a committee to escort Capt. Weeks to the hall.

While this committee was attending to its duty, Mr. Abbott E. French of Canton was nominated as presidential elector for the district and a district committee of which W. F. Garcelon, Frederick Johnson, S. W. Jones and C. E. Hatfield of this city are members was elected.

When Capt. Weeks entered the hall
he was received with applause and three cheers and a tiger led by Hon.
E. L. Pickard. Capt. Weeks said:

"After a canvass almost unprecedented in length and of unusual strenuousness in its character, it is a personal satisfaction to know that this Convention, representing as it does the different influences and sentiments of the Twelfth District, has voted to make its action unanimous. This is not only gratifying from the standpoint of the candidate, but it indicates an intention to present a solid front to whatever opposition we may have to encounter during the coming campaign. Theoretically, public office of such an important character as this is should seek the candidate. Practically, I believe that such a condition is seldom if ever the case and I doubt if present methods of selecting candidates differ greatly from those which have obtained since the Republic was founded; certainly in this instance this nomination has not come unsought, but it would not have been sought at all if I had not felt that I had the hearty support of the people of my own city of Newton. There I am known and have been tried and I value their approval far beyond any political office and without it I should never think of aspiring to one, but when one goes beyond the limits of his personal acquaintance, as has been necessary in this case, it then becomes important that the record and personality of the candidate should be presented to the individual voters; any other condition would be impossible in a district in which nearly every town has citizens entitled to aspire to the highest honors. But while I have sought this nomination
I have not in the remotest sense bargained for it and I will therefore be free, if elected, to give to the district the best there is in me. If I fail to satisfy you or fail to satisfy myself,
which is in a way quite as important,
I shall be ready to relinquish the trust which you are confiding to me at the end of my term."

"The suggestion has been made during the preliminary campaign that being engaged in active business affairs, it would be impossible for me to properly attend to my public duties if elected. Similar suggestions were made when I was about to assume other public responsibilities, but I believe my constituents have previously had no cause to feel that I had neglected in any way any public trust which I had assumed; however it is due you and those you represent for me to state that I hold sacred an oath of office, and if elected I will put aside
all other duties and responsibilities, making my first [and if I find it necessary my only] duty the work which you would confide to my keeping."

"I will not detain you today to discuss public problems or campaign issues. I shall be ready, however, to take up those questions as the campaign develops at such times and places as you or the local committees throughout the district may wish."

"No man can assume the responsibility of such a nomination as this without a variety of sentiments—satisfaction that such an opportunity should be his—deep appreciation of the obligations and responsibilities which are involved—grave doubt of sufficient capacity to perform the duties satisfactorily to his constituents—and this doubt is enhanced in the present case when I remember that the man whose place I am expected to fill has acquired during his short service in Congress a standing and an influence greater probably than that achieved by any man who entered the 57th Congress with him. All these sentiments and many more are mine; but such capacity and experience as I have will be freely given in a desire to serve well the people of the Twelfth District. I wish to thank you for your cordial greeting, for your personal friendship and through you to express to those you represent, my deepest sense of gratitude for this honor which you have conferred upon me."

Following the convention the delegates were given a lunch at Young's.

SENATORIAL.

The First Middlesex Senatorial Convention was held in Red Men's Hall, Natick, on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mr. Heath of Framingham was elected chairman and fifty delegates were present.

Mayor A. R. Weed of Newton nominated Hon. William F. Dana for a second term for senator in a brief but exceedingly able speech, and after a stirring second by Representative McManus of Natick, the nomination was made by acclamation.

Mr. Chas. F. Kelley of Newton then nominated Mr. William M. Flanders of Newton for membership in the state committee. Mr. W. O. Cutler of Natick seconded the nomination which was made unanimous.

Senator Dana was then presented to the convention and made a brief speech of acceptance, in which he strongly hinted that the district would probably be honored with the Presidency of the Senate.

Following the convention a collation was served to the delegates.

sion. They contended, for instance, over different theories of the origin and explanation of sin in a moral universe, a discussion of which Dr. Munger says in his life of Bushnell. "It was a subject which Christ waived but the New England theologians waived nothing." And the constant pondering of weighty themes made not only deep thinkers but men of strenuous will to carry out what they deemed the divine purposes of righteousness. But defective vision and partial and exaggerated statements are inevitable in human systems. And the reaction from the excesses of Calvinistic speculation came. I suppose that there is no person in this audience that would subscribe to the five points of Calvinism as Calvin stated them. We do not hold, as an article of faith, absolute and unconditional predestination, independent of faith or works on the part of the elect, and reprobation of the rest of mankind, equally without regard to their demerit. We do not believe in a limited atonement nor accept the compensation theory of its efficacy. We cannot affirm that men are totally and entirely depraved, with utter inability to all spiritual good, and that infants are as guilty in the eyes of infinite justice as hardened sinners. Nor do we believe that divine grace is irresistible, nor that the saints, unconditionally elected, absolutely purchased by the death of Christ, and irresistibly called by the Holy Spirit cannot possibly be turned aside from the life of grace. But while these extreme statements of doctrine are repugnant to us, yet the essential truths of their mighty faith are our heritage. Their iron is in our blood, and we cannot ignore it and would not, if we could. We, too, believe in a great God who works out His sovereign purpose in this world, and all modern scientific advance enlarges our concept of His character. We, too, believe in human sin as one of the ultimate facts of life, and the need of some greater and higher power than our own poor striving to enter into these lives of ours and redeem them. And all our modern thought emphasizes more fully that redemptive love of God by which men are lifted out of the mire of sin and selfishness. We find the essence of the divine character in love where they found it in will; we lay greater emphasis upon reason in the Godhead than on power; their theories of the atonement seem to us mechanical and unsatisfactory and many of their theological speculations almost absurd and childish, mingled with much that is weighty and worthy; but we cannot forget that it is only through their toil of thought that we have entered into our religious conceptions. They who dwell in fertile valleys, enriched by ever-flowing streams, may well recall the rugged, snow covered heights where those perennial fountains have their source. And however much we may differ with them in our ideas of religious truth, I trust that even in these days, as in all the days of the history of this church, we are one with them in holding the same views in reasoned and settled conviction, with thorough persuasion and earnest espousal. The Puritan spirit and temper does not consist in the absolute correctness of what is held as truth, but in the vigor of intellectual grasp and the fidelity of moral persuasion with which those conceptions of truth are held. In such absolute surrender to the truth as one sees it there is always dignity and power. The danger in their day was intolerance. In our day it lies in the tendency to indifference, to hold all truth lightly and wear our allegiance to it as an early yoke. In the careless luxury of our time we do well to pay honor to the unyielding grapple of their tough wills and gird ourselves anew for steadfast service. We are trained and nurtured in a milder faith than theirs. May we hold what we believe to be true and necessary with a like firm conviction.

A second characteristic is found in charity for those of other views. Tolerance was not a too common virtue with the fathers. Intensity and narrowness have a mutual relation. While the Pilgrims at Plymouth were far in advance of their age in this virtue, the Puritans of Boston and vicinity were almost as strenuous advocates of conformity as those from whose tryanny some of them had fled. And I presume that the earliest settlers in this community were little more charitable toward divergences of belief. But happily there was no occasion to test their temper in this respect in those early days. For more than 117 years this was the only church in the town. When the Second Parish was formed, there was great opposition on the part of this church, because they were unwilling to lose the financial support of so many members. But when other denominations began to form churches here, the old church made them heartily welcome. One of the pleasant things in our history is the life-long friendship between Dr. Homer and Father Grafton, of the Baptist Church, and it is fitting that Grafton and Homer street in such close proximity should perpetuate their names. It is pleasant to think of Dr. Grafton dismissing his congregation on the Sunday after the death of Dr. Homer's only son that he might come and sit in the pulpit with his afflicted friend and offer a prayer of consolation. At Dr. Homer's funeral it was said of him, "many of his relatives and personal friends differed from him in religious opinions, but he ever cherished toward them the warmest affections of love and friendship. There was no bigotry in him his heart overflowed with love to all who loved the Lord Jesus Christ, of every sect and name—He was not a denominational Christian, but a member of the Church universal." This was the time of the Unitarian controversy, when in the bitterness of debate many old friends were separated forever. But Dr. Homer continued his intimacy with Dr. Pierce of Brookline and Dr. Freeman of King's Chapel, who became Unitarians, as well as with Dr. Codman, of Dorchester, Dr. Greenough of the West Parish, and with Rev. Dr. Grafton, of the Baptist church, who had no sympathy with the new views, and he was respected and beloved by both parties alike. In later years a similar friendship to that of Dr. Homer and Father Grafton existed between Dr. Furber and Dr. Hovey, the president of the Newton Theological Institution. Collegiates at Dartmouth, they spent their lives here side by side, in delightful friendship, to which their different denominational loyalty was no barrier. The last public address of Dr. Furber was delivered in the Baptist Church in memory of the late Dr. S. F. Smith, at the dedication of the new chime of bells, and it was a fitting tribute to his memory that the chimes were rung as his funeral procession passed the building. Thus the pleasant relation now existing between the churches of this village, and the spirit of Christian cooperation which is such a delightful feature of the religious life of the community, is due in no small measure to the spirit of tolerance and Christian love which marked the ministers of this church and which through their teaching and example, the people have cherished.

A third characteristic of this church has been its missionary interest and activity. Perhaps this has been partly due to the impetus given by the first pastor, John Eliot, Jr. He had preached among the Indians, and was much beloved by them, and had assisted his father, the Apostle to the Indians, in the preparation of his famous Bible. After he was settled here he continued his ministry, to the neighboring tribes, in whose welfare he was deeply interested.

This missionary spirit has been fostered by personal relations with many missionaries and leaders in missionary movements. Dr. Hobart, the second pastor, was related to the famous David Brainerd. Rev. Joseph Park, one of our earliest members, went as a missionary to the Indians at Westerly, Rhode Island. Abigail Williams, granddaughter of one of the early deacons, Isaac Williams, married John Sergeant, a missionary to the Housatonic Indians, and their son gave his life to the same work. Deacon William Jackson was the first president of the American Missionary Association, and a leading spirit in its organization. Rev. Increase Sumner Davis went into home mission work in New Hampshire. In later years we have had as a deacon Langdon S. Ward, treasurer of the American Board, and we now number among our members, Dr. James L. Barton, one of its secretaries, and Dr. George M. Boynton, of the Sunday School Society. We have sent out Harriet N. Childs to Central Turkey, where Mary Isabella Ward is now continuing her work; Bertha Robertson to Georgia; and Sarah L. Smith, now Mrs. Captain Garland, to Micronesia. Mrs. Mary Ward Dunning, daughter of Deacon Samuel Ward, now in Japan with her husband, mission work. Paul Ward, another of our members, taught for some time in Robert College, Constantinople, Edwin Ward, another son of Deacon Langdon S. Ward, is finishing his studies preparatory to the work of medical missions, and Edwin S. Cobb, son of Rev. Dr. W. H. Cobb, another child of this church, is to be ordained this week and goes to Japan under the American Board.

As early as 1826 a child was adopted in Ceylon bearing the name of Dr. Homer, and another in the Choctaw nation bearing the name of Mrs. Homer, and the church thus early began a policy of having its own representatives on mission soil, which it has renewed in later years. Within the last few years we have had as many as five missionaries and Bible readers at work at one time in mission lands, supported by this church and by the ladies connected with it. And the gifts to missions in this long history have been constant and their total is no small sum. It is a great blessing for a church to have the missionary spirit impressed upon it at the beginning and to be kept continually in vital touch with mission work through the living representatives from its own membership. We shall be false indeed to our history and traditions, if we ever cease to labor and pray for missions.

The mention of the missionaries who have gone out from this church reminds us that 24 ministers and 20 ministers' wives have been given to the work of the Gospel in our own land. And of their descendants 26 have entered the ministry and 21 have become wives of ministers.

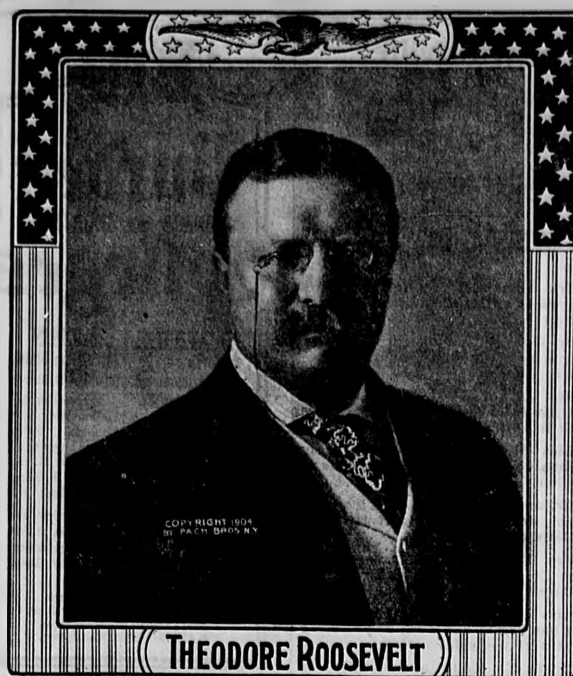

Another marked feature of the history of this church is the number of able and energetic laymen who have served in it. Especially has it had a remarkable succession of deacons, godly men of zeal and ability and laymen who have served this church and who continue to this day. We have now in the congregation more than a hundred college graduates, men and women, and last winter 40 of our boys and girls were in various colleges. Almost all of them were members of the church, having the seal of the church put upon them before that of the college the two uniting to fit them for service in the state and the kingdom of God. May church and school ever thus co-operate in a land which never

While near her school the church-spire stands."
Nor fears the blinded bigot's rule,
While near her church-spire stands a

And as many of our choicest youth have gone into the ministry in former days, may we still furnish leaders in that great and holy calling.

Fifth: I wish to speak briefly of the civil influence of this body during these two and a half centuries. One of the ministers who grew up in this church was Rev. Jonas Clark of Lexington, a leading spirit among those clergymen who did so much to prepare the public mind for the revolutionary struggle. One of his daughters married the president of Columbia College, and another was the wife of the Professor of Divinity at Harvard. More than half of the male members of this church fought in the Revolutionary War, and I find the names of 20 members of this parish on the roll of honor as volunteers in the Civil War. But the gifts of the church to the state in peace have been greater even than such a noble offering on the altar of patriotism. Among the descendants of the early families are three judges, two members of Congress, a large number of well known authors, four college professors, three professors in theological seminaries and five college presidents. Who can measure the influences exerted by such men for good citizenship and that righteousness which exalteth a nation? Professor Park, in his famous sermon on "The Indebtedness of the State to the Clergy," quotes Sir Thomas Powell Buxton as saying at the close of his great career, "Whatever I have done in my life for Africa, the seeds of it were sown in my heart in Wheeler street Chapel." None of us, probably, has ever heard of Wheeler street Chapel. The humble minister is unknown to fame. But Sir Thomas Powell Buxton's work is known throughout the world. And many a man has wrought mightily for the welfare of the nation and of his kind, whose aspirations were awakened here in this village church and whose life was nourished and strengthened by waters from this ancient fountain. And the influence of such a church goes on in cumulative fruitfulness through the years.

Sixth: The last characteristic that I shall mention is the influence of consecrated womanhood. The thoughts of the older people present will immediately turn to that beautiful and gracious woman who presided with so much dignity in the home of Dr. Furber, and whose portrait fittingly adorns the walls of our chapel. Eminent in all good works, extending her influence through her benefactions to the destitute in the southern and western states and in foreign lands, the friend of all who were in trouble, the comfort of those in sorrow, the counsellor of the perplexed, her memory is cherished in many distant homes and grateful hearts. But Mrs. Furber was only one in that apostolic succession of noble women, who not only in the parsonage, but in so many homes in this parish have given witness to the beauty of holiness. Dr. Furber's memorial discourse gives in some detail the history of Mrs. Hannah Pope, a notable "mother in Israel," who lived to the age of 104 years, and exerted a wide influence. And such women as the daughters of Isaac Williams, of Dr. Nehemiah Hobart and Dr. John Cotton and of Deacon Jackson, and Deacon Woodward have been the ornaments of our history and a chief source of the influence of this church. Nor has the goodly succession failed. The strength of this church today as of all our churches, is largely in its consecrated womanhood. The women of the church still labor and pray for its usefulness and the monument of their toil is seen in the beautiful furnishings of this house where we worship.

As we leave this history this morning, I am impressed anew with the power of transmitted life. We are wont to think of the early settlers of New England as a wonderful race, almost as if they were demi-gods. And they were a picked and sifted company to whom God gave the honor of founding a mighty nation. But Dr. Storrs has rightly reminded us, in one of his great orations, that they brought with them the impetus from the life of a wonderful century. It was in 1664, the very date of the founding of this church, that New Amsterdam was captured by the English and became New York, and the English domination of the colonies was made complete. Glance at the century that preceded that event, from the coronation of Queen Elizabeth in 1558. It saw the flowering of art and literature in southern Europe. It saw Tasso crowned and Galileo imprisoned. Tintoretto, Paul Veronese, Titian, Guido Reni, Salvator Rosa and Michael Angelo are among the stars of greater magnitude in its artistic sky. It saw the dome of St. Peter's finished. Cervantes, Calderon, Velasquez and Lope de Vega adorned the annals of Spain. In northern Europe such names as Kepler, Moliere, Racine, Pascal, Rubens and Rembrandt, Van Dyke and Claude Lorraine, Spenser, Hooker, Sidney, Milton, Shakespeare and all the lesser lights of the Elizabethan glory belong to its renown. Descartes and Leibnitz, Newton, Grotius and Spinoza opened new paths for human thought. What a marvelous era! Before men new worlds in art, in philosophy, in literature, in commerce, trade and political expansion were opening. It was an age to quicken the imagination and make men ready for great daring and great achievement. And these men who came here for freedom dared to break with the past and go back to the New Testament for their model and found here a "church without a bishop and a state without a king." They took the life they had received and carried it on new fruitfulness and glory in untried fields. And their greatest gift to the world was not the institutions they established, great as these were, but the transmission of the power of simple and noble living to their successors. So the tide of divine life rolls on through the years. Jesus left no book nor organized community behind Him. But he gathered about Him the company of His disciples and filled them with the life of God. They went forth with that power of life and in their turn renewed the divine fire in thousands. And through the generations the life has been perpetuated by the transmission of the impulse from generation to generation. The moral and spiritual power of this generation is thus largely derived from the holy succession which goes back through the fathers unto our Lord Himself. The beginnings of the history of this church are to be sought not even in the creative century preceding, but in the life-giving soul of Christ. What a responsibility such a thought brings with it? We stand here in a holy succession. As we have received the gift, it is ours to hand it on with undiminished power, and in the new and wonderful openings of Providence in this era to be as ready as the fathers were to serve our God and generation in the fear of God. When England flattered for a moment, in the early days of the last century, the poet Wordsworth summoned his countrymen to worthy endeavor in such words as these:

"In our halls is hung Armoury of the invincible knights of old:
We must be free or die, who speak the tongue
That Shakespeare spoke; the faith and morals hold Which Milton held. In everything we are sprung
Of Earth's first blood, have titles manifold."

So this record summons us to worthy living. In our halls is hung armoury of a knightly ancestry. Let others forsake their high calling and give themselves to selfish years and sinful indulgence, but not we. Noblesse oblige! And may we, the heirs of so great an inheritance be worthy of our history.

SCHOFIELD-WEBBER.

In Channing Unitarian Church, Newton, last Monday evening occurred the first of the autumn weddings. The bride was Miss Alice Mary Webber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wallis Webber and the groom Mr. Frank Plimpton Schofield son of Mr. H. B. Schofield. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with autumn foliage and among the large audience present were representatives of many of Newton's most prominent families. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson pastor of the church, and the bride was attended by Mrs. George A. Sawin of Lynn as matron of honor and the Misses Natalie Whiting of Brookline, Abbie Merchant of Gloucester, Myrtle Booker of Brunswick, Me., Elizabeth Leavitt of Newton and Isabel Gilson of Wellesley Hills as bridesmaids. The bride was gown in a beautiful creation of white chiffon and the bridesmaids wore lilac liberty silk. The ushers were Messrs. H. Albert Hansen of Newton, John W. Webber of Brighton, George A. Sawin of Lynn, Edward M. Hill of Boston, Creighton Porter of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Howard Thomas of Taunton. A small reception followed the ceremony at the bride's home on Washington street, Brighton Hill. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Schofield will make their home at the Marion.

HUTCHINSON-MELLEN.

Miss Virginia Walker Mellen, the daughter of Alderman and Mrs. George H. Mellen of Newton Highlands became the bride of Mr. Albert Savage Hutchinson of that village last Saturday afternoon in the presence of a large and fashionable audience at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church.

The ceremony took place at four o'clock. Rev. Dr. George T. Smart officiating and the church was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers and foliage combined with masses of hydrangea blossoms and ropes and garlands of laurel.

The bride, a brunette of striking beauty, was charmingly gowned in white satin crepe de chine trimmed with old French lace which had previously adorned her mother and grandmother. She was attended by Miss Eleanor Hutchinson of Newton Highlands as maid of honor, and was escorted to the altar on the arm of her father.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Eleanor Palmer of New York, Millicent F. G. Jarvie of Brooklyn, Alice S. Russell of Winchester, Mary C. Wilder of Newton, Agnes E. Slocum of Newtonville and Edith S. Whittemore of Newton Highlands. They were attired in gowns of lavender messaline silk, with white chiffon yokes, embroidered in lavender, the skirts with three flounces of the 1830 style. They wore high-crowned hats of lavender maline, fastened with strings, and carried lavender asters. The maid of honor was in white messaline silk, wore a white maline hat and carried white asters.

The groom, a son of the late Liberty Hutchinson of Lewiston, Me., and nephew of Freedom Hutchinson of Newton Highlands, was attended by Emory H. Sykes of New York as best man. The ushers were Maurice B. Biscoe, Charles F. Johnson, Jr., and Albert H. Mellen of Newton Highlands, Frank L. Mellen of Worcester, Dr. David P. Butler of Boston and Dr. J. G. W. Knowlton of Exeter, N. H.

Following the church ceremony was a brilliant reception at the home of Alderman Mellen, 291 Lake avenue, the bride and groom being assisted in receiving by Alderman and Mrs. Mellen and Mr. and Mrs. Freedom Hutchinson. The receiving party received in the red music room which was decorated with laurel ropes and white asters, the remainder of the house having autumn foliage and berries. Refreshments were served in a tent on the lawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson, after a wedding trip through the White Mountains will reside at 69 Allerton road, Newton Highlands and will be at home to their friends on December 6 and 13th.

At the Theatres

Coming Attractions

Grand Opera House—William B. Gray's beautiful drama "The Volunteer Organist" will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House next week. The scenes of the play are laid in a small village in the northern part of Vermont, and the story is enlivened by several thrilling and pathetic scenes. Those who expect to see a barnyard play when this play is presented will be somewhat disappointed, as all the scenes are laid in the village of Cambridge, Vt., and the characters, instead of being country yokels are real village folks, who actually get and read the city papers. Matinees will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as usual.

Tremont Theatre—On Monday evening, October 10, the young American tragedienne, Miss Nance O'Neil, will begin an engagement of one week only in Manager Schofield's newly-decorated playhouse, the Tremont. The simple announcement of Miss O'Neil's return to Boston will doubtless suffice to crowd the theatre at every performance of her limited engagement. The repertoire will comprise "Magda," "Fires of St. John," "Hedda Gabler," and a new Biblical tragedy by Thomas Bailey Aldrich, entitled "Judith of Bethulia." Miss O'Neil's supporting company this season is an organization of particular strength and general excellence. Mr. Charles Dalton, for many years the bright, particular star of "The Sign of the Cross" is the leading man. The sent and box plan for Miss O'Neil's engagement opened at the Tremont box office on Monday evening, October 3rd.

MME. HANNA MARA.

Who will sing the role of Kundry in Henry W. Savage's production of "Parsifal."

Keith's Theatre—Annie Irish, the well known actress, will be the featured attraction at Keith's the week of Oct. 10, appearing in a little sketch called "An Actress' Christmas." The novelty songbook, with Martha Pulley as soloist, will be retained another six days, with a complete change of ballads and the introduction of some new specialties. It is the best novelty that has been offered at Keith's for some time. Among the other entertainers scheduled to appear are Edgar Norton, the artistic actor who played the chapie parts in "The Prince of Pilsen" and "The Toreador;" Clement DeLion, a skillful European manipulator of coins and billiard balls this being his first appearance; Crane Brothers, the inexpressibly funny "Mudtown Minstrels;" H. B. Fitzgerald, a quick character change artist, who presents work a la Friegoli; the Milani trio, Italian street singers and musicians, and the Marvelous Merills, trick and comedy bicyclists. Mon. Germain, said to be the greatest baritone vocalist who has ever been heard in the varieties, is underlined for the week of Oct. 17th.

Letter to Henry Bally, Newton Centre.

Dear Sir: Pay more for Devco; be glad to. It is full-measure and honest. Paint is a watch-dog. How would you like a watch-dog that wouldn't watch from two to five o'clock in the morning? That's short-measure.

How would you like a watch-dog that had a way of wagging his tail at a burglar? That's false paint. The burglar is rain and snow. Go by the name: Devco lead-and-zinc.

Yours truly

Assortment the Largest,
Prices the Lowest for Quality Offered.

Our bargains are made by marking down our own stock to a low price, not by purchasing inferior goods to make an attractive price.

It is a mistake to infer that we carry only high-priced fabrics. We have medium grades as well, and our prices are low because our expenses are proportioned over a volume of business exceeded by few in our specialty in the United States, and equaled by none in New England.

Undoubtedly the above statement fits this store. Why? Because we always have a large enough assortment so that you are sure to find something that pleases you. Because our qualities are the reliable kind, good enough so that you want more the same as the last. We never pay as much attention to cost as we do to quality, still it's an interesting fact to mention that when you fit the price to the quality, this store gets your trade.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Foster of Gramere street announce the engagement of their daughter Marie Louise to Danforth W. Comins of Boston, Harvard Law School.

—John O. Worden of Philadelphia and Edwin S. Worden of New York have been in town this week on account of the sickness and death of their father Mr. Edwin E. Worden.

—Mr. James E. Clark of Bellevue street has nearly completed his summer house at Lake Sunapee, N. H. It is estimated this place will cost its owner over $50,000 it being one of the finest properties there.

—Mr. and Mrs. William A. Goodman of Claremont street will have the sympathy of their many friends in the loss of their daughter Mrs. Edith Lyman Spence wife of D. Jerome Spence who died in Lexington, Ky., last Friday aged 25 years.

Accident.

With a crash that was heard several blocks distant, a heavy automobile of the touring car style, driven at a high rate of speed by an unknown man, late Sunday night was in collision with a light open carriage on Watertown street in this city, completely demolishing the carriage and injuring two persons, one of them seriously.

The injured are Miss Annie Traynor of Chapel st, a well-known young woman of the Nonantum district, who sustained serious cuts and bruises about the head and body and it is feared internal injuries, and Patrick Meade of Newtonville, badly cut about the head and face.

After the collision the chauffeur, without stopping to ascertain whether anybody had been hurt, turned his machine about and made his escape as rapidly as possible. In the darkness and confusion the occupants were unable to see the number on the machine.

According to the story told to the police by the injured couple they were driving along Watertown street shortly after 11 last night. They heard the auto approaching at a rapid speed and, fearing that the horse attached to their carriage would shy, they turned toward the right hand side of the street.

An instant later the heavy machine struck their vehicle with terrific force. So great was the impact that the carriage was overturned and crushed and dragged several yards. Miss Traynor and Meade were both hurled to the ground, the former striking on her head. The horse, freed from the carriage, ran down Chapel street and was caught later nearly a mile from the scene of the accident.

Patrolmen Ryan and Goode, who were standing some distance down the street heard the crash and the cries for help and ran to the scene and rendered what assistance they were able to the couple.

Miss Traynor was taken to her home on Chapel street and a physician summoned. Her injuries were said by the police to be of a serious nature. Meade was assisted to his home by the officers.

It was evident from the haste with which the driver of the auto made his escape that his vehicle suffered little, if any, injury.

OUR SCHOOLS.

The following report of the new Superintendent of Schools, Mr. Frank E. Spaulding, has so much of general interest that with Mr. Spaulding's permission we print it in full:

Newtonville, Sept. 28, 1904.

To the School Committee:

The enrollment in the grammar schools at the end of the first week of the term was as follows:

	On Roll.	Expected.
Kindergartens	421	84
Gr. I.	626	71
II.	613	46
III.	510	33
IV.	504	17
V.	509	29
VI.	479	27
VII.	426	30
VIII.	380	24
IX.	324	14

BY DISTRICTS.

	On Roll.	Expected.
Nigelow	635	59
Horace Mann	677	25
Clifton	224	33
Peirce	959	71
C. C. Burr	450	35
Hamilton	132	3
Hyde	515	53
Mason	837	81

The enrollment in the high school to date and by classes is as follows:

	Boys.	Girls.
Fourth Class	118	165
Third "	112	110
Second "	92	113
First "	75	102

The enrollment figures reported one year ago permit the following comparisons:

	1903.	1904.	Inc.
Enrollment in Kindergartens	426	505	79
Enrollment in Prim. & Gram	4471	4722	251
Enrollment in High School	831	887	56
Total Enrollment in all Departments	5728	6114	386

(The figures used for this year include the "number expected" at the end of the first week; in most cases the expected ones have now entered; in some cases the number anticipated has been exceeded.)

By making some transfers in two or three districts, the classes as organized are nearly all of reasonable size. Throughout the city everything has been running smoothly from the first. If we except some difficulties experienced in a few places owing to the absence of the regular teachers.

I have visited all the schools and every school room, with the exception of some in the high school. I am glad to express my pleasure, my delight, with conditions as I have found them thus far. As a whole, the equipment, the spirit of the pupils and the character of the teaching force, I believe to be excellent. My visits have permitted me to observe but little of the real work of the schools, but I shall be surprised and disappointed if this is not found, on closer examination, to be worthy of the existing favorable conditions. But I shall be no less surprised and disappointed, too, if it is not found feasible to make decided improvements in the work, however good it may now be.

Certain observations which I have already made, together with some information which I have secured, justify even now the suggestion of plans, which, if carried out, I am confident will add materially and, as time goes on, increasingly to the efficiency of the school system.

Closer organization, closer supervision, greater interdependence, more perfect co-operation throughout the system, is highly desirable. Each district should be organized as an integral part of the city system, without sacrificing anything of the peculiar characteristics which specially adapt the district organization to local needs. Each class room also should be organized as an integral part of the district and city system, without sacrificing anything of the individual characteristics which should adapt it to the requirements of the class of children under instruction.

The process of securing such unification, without mechanical uniformity, will vitally affect the work of the schools in many ways and in many directions. I will specify at this time only two. The first concerns textbooks, the second teachers and their supervision.

I find that it has been customary in all districts to allow each individual teacher free choice among the textbooks on the approved list. At first thought it may seem to be a very conservative and reasonable degree of liberty to allow each teacher to select from several texts on a given subject, all officially pronounced satisfactory, the one that she prefers to use. In fact, I should consider this plan most commendable, if each class room could be treated as an independent unit. But for the school system, and for each class room as a part of that system, some of the results of this method of choosing text books are most unfortunate. I will illustrate its actual working in our school in respect to one subject only, arithmetic, which, probably, suffers more in this way than any other.

There are eleven different arithmetics on the approved list, nearly all of which seem to be in use in considerable numbers in nearly every district. A pupil may thus study a different book in every grade; most pupils do actually change texts several times during their course. Pupils in the same grade, but in different classes, and in the same district, may be using different books, next year many, or all, pupils from both classes may be brought together into a single class, and a third text in arithmetic used. This condition of things can hardly fail to be a decided hindrance to clear understanding and progressive mastery of this subject. It is, indeed, desirable to come at the same subject from different standpoints, as treated, for instance, by different authors. But, first of all, that subject should be studied through carefully and systematically from some one standpoint. Especially important is this for the immature mind of the child.

It is not necessary, perhaps not desirable, that any one text book in arithmetic be used throughout the city. It is desirable, however, in my judgment, that each master, in full consultation with his teachers, decide upon some one text, or at the most two, one for the primary and another for the grammar grades, which shall be used as the one and only regular text in the hands of the pupils of that district. Then there should be on each teacher's desk for reference and supplementary use a single copy each of as many other good arithmetics as possible. This arrangement would require that there should be, at a liberal estimate, a total of not more than 20 or 25 per cent more books on arithmetic in any district than there are pupils in that district who are studying this subject. As a matter of fact, every district is much more liberally supplied with arithmetics than this. There is one district in which there are 484 per cent more arithmetics than there are pupils using them, and in the whole city there are over 130 per cent more books than pupils.

A better adjustment of this matter can be readily brought about, probably not conveniently before the middle, possibly not before the end of this school year, which will result not only in improving the work in this subject, but in a material saving of money, which can be used advantageously in other directions. I anticipate that similar adjustment of texts in other subjects will be found desirable.

In the matter of teachers and their supervision I am convinced that there should be added to the present corps an unassigned teacher in each district, possibly combining for this purpose some of the smaller districts, providing, say, seven such teachers in all. These teachers should not be selected from candidates not quite strong enough for regular positions; they should be rather the best all-round teachers in the district, capable of going into any grade at any time, for a single day or indefinitely, and really carrying on the work of that grade successfully. Needless to say, the salaries paid for such superior service would have to be commensurate with the ability demanded. Such ability is rare, but it can be secured, and at considerably less than double the rate now paid miscellaneous substitutes.

And immediate returns from such expenditure would be second in value to none obtained from like expenditure in any other part of the school system. A weak substitute is exceedingly dear at any price. According to a reasonable estimate, I think such unassigned teachers would be called upon to substitute, on the average, about one-half the time. The other half of these teachers' time could be employed no less profitably in giving instruction to individuals or small groups of pupils, who, for any reason, need special attention. There is always an abundance of this work that ought to be done, but must perforce be neglected.

The appointment of a supervisor of kindergartens last year was a wise move. The kindergartens will profit much by competent supervision. I think it will not be necessary, however, for the kindergarten supervisor to give all, or even a large proportion of her time to supervision. I believe that satisfactory arrangements can be made so that, by devoting one day a week to this, she can visit all kindergartens in the city once a month, and afterwards, when all kindergartens are free, hold such conferences as may seem desirable. Four days of the week she would have charge of her own kindergarten. This plan would not involve any considerable expense for supervision—probably not over $250 per year.

There should be in the near future a competent supervisor of primary and lower grammar grades, one who is an expert in the methods of instruction in all the regular subjects taught in these grades. This would allow the masters time, after devoting a few periods each week to teaching and after attending to the details of the organization and general management of their districts, to supervise competently the work in the higher grammar grades.

The kind of supervision which I have in mind for the regular subjects of the grades is similar to that now furnished for the special subjects, and I know from experience would yield no less valuable returns in the increased efficiency of each teacher's work. Such supervision would not be restrictive, repressive, nor coercive; it would be stimulative, encouraging and educative. Constant growth, improvement, and a feeling of a community of interests on the part of every teacher lie at the very foundation of any strong and progressive school system. I know of nothing so efficient in bringing about and maintaining these conditions as adequate educational supervision. Few, even of the best teachers, will long continue to grow in power and skill if left to themselves; few, even of average teachers, will fail to respond promptly and constantly to competent supervision. The money paid for such supervision yields by far the largest returns of any money spent in the school system.

I am confident that these seven proposed unassigned teachers and a supervisor of primary and lower grammar grades can all be secured gradually within the next two or three years without increasing the salary budget at all on this account, and without in any way weakening the school system at any point. This can be done by a careful and strictly business-like examination of the salaries voted to salaries. Let me hasten to say that I do not propose a "cut" in the present salary of any employee of the board. On the contrary, I hope the rules of this board may be so modified that it will be possible, whenever it is deemed advisable, to exceed in individual cases the present salary maxima, and so to compete successfully on this score with any rival for the services of teachers whom we desire to retain. Such sums as may be annually necessary for this purpose I believe can also be provided without increasing the salary budget.

I find it has been customary, at least in recent years, to seek new teachers, for the most part, in this immediate vicinity. This has brought us into competition with places paying as high, or nearly as high salaries as we pay here. And I know that we have not always been able to compete successfully for the best teachers in these parts, even when offering our maximum salary. One of the results of this method of recruiting the teaching force is a nearly uniform salary list—the regular grade positions showing an extreme range of only $75, the lowest salary paid being $600, and the highest $675. Of course, we all know theoretically, if not from immediate observation, that the slight difference of $75 is not at all commensurate with the great difference in individual efficiency manifested in the teaching body. Indeed, it is desirable that there should be differences of efficiency measured by a sum much larger than $75, if only, the lower grade efficiency represents not lack of native ability and professional training but limited experience. To be specific on this point, there should be constantly brought into the system those of the best natural teaching ability—young, enthusiastic, adaptable, ambitious, well taught and trained professionally, but without extended experience. Such recruits, under the competent supervision which I propose, will grow rapidly and perfectly into the ideal type of teachers of our school system, and become in a few years our best teachers. In this way the very strongest school systems are built up.

Such young teachers can be secured readily at $500, $525 or $550. These salaries represent to them a decided financial promotion; this, together with the many advantages offered by a position in the Newton schools, with an opportunity of rapid advancement, will make it easy to recruit our forces in this way. I know from experience how and where such young teachers can be found. For years I have been able to secure some of the best of them, and at salaries considerably lower than those I have here mentioned, and to go to a place where the incidental attractions and obvious advantages of a position were decidedly inferior to those offered here. It is by filling annually most of the vacancies offering no special difficulty with such teachers, and at such salaries as I have described, that I would propose to save enough to pay the cost of unassigned teachers and a supervisor. And I have absolute confidence, based on successful experience in this practice, that economy in this way would not weaken, but decidedly strengthen our school system, as well as furnish the many advantages which would come from these proposed additions to our corps.

The amount of this saving I have tried to approximate in some detailed figures. It would take at least three years to reach the maximum annual saving under this plan, inasmuch as teachers appointed at $500 to $550 would not usually be advanced to the maximum salary in less than three years. At present, in regular grade positions, grades I to VI, inclusive, there are:

5 teachers at $600.....	$3,000
11 " " " 625.....	6,875
61 " " " 650.....	39,650
9 " " " 675.....	6,075
86 " " " $55,000

An average salary of $646.

After complete readjustment, according to the plan I have outlined, the figures might well be something like this:

5 teachers at $500.....	$2,500
5 " " " 525.....	2,625
5 " " " 550.....	3,300
6 " " " 575.....	3,450
6 " " " 600.....	3,600
6 " " " 625.....	3,750
46 " " " 650.....	29,900
6 " " " 675.....	4,050
86 " " " $53,175

An average salary of $618.

The total saving resulting from this readjustment would be $2,425.

In a similar way as vacancies occur, I believe at least a small saving might be made in the salaries of high school assistants, without in any way injuring the present splendid efficiency of the school. This idea was advocated in a general way by Mr. Atkinson. At present the salaries of high school assistants are as follows:

1 assistant at $600.....	$600
1 " " " 750.....	750
1 " " " 800.....	800
3 " " " 850.....	2,550
2 " " " 900.....	1,800
3 " " " 950.....	2,850
11 " " " 1,000.....	11,000
1 " " " 1,100.....	1,100
1 " " " 1,250.....	1,250
24 " " " $22,700

An average salary of $945.

After complete readjustment these salaries might be something like this:

3 assistants at $600.....	$1,800
3 " " " 700.....	2,100
3 " " " 800.....	2,400
6 " " " 900.....	5,400
7 " " " 1,000.....	7,000
1 " " " 1,100.....	1,100
1 " " " 1,250.....	1,250
24 " " " $21,050

An average salary of $887.

Such an arrangement would effect a saving of $1,650.

As vacancies occur there might well be a saving in the salaries of first assistants who are in charge of buildings. At present, with two exceptions, these are not in the smallest schools; such positions pay a uniform salary of $750. There is obviously no uniformity of responsibility, however, outside the first assistants' own class rooms—for the number of regular assistants varies in the different buildings from one to nine.

I believe the first assistants' positions as they become vacant in the smaller of these buildings—only four of the twelve have more than four rooms each—might be permanently filled at less than $750. It might be advisable also, at times, to promote from the smaller to the larger buildings. At present the salaries in these positions are as follows:

2 first assistants at $700.....	$1,400
10 " " " 750.....	7,500
12 " " " $8,900
After complete readjustment they might be something like this:
2 first assistants at $650.....	$1,300
2 " " " 700.....	1,400
2 " " " 725.....	1,450
4 " " " 750.....	3,000
12 " " " $8,500

This would yield a total saving of $400. A summary of the estimated savings in these three departments is as follows:

Gr. I to VI, regular positions	$2,425
High School assistants' positions	1,650
First assistants, in charge of buildings	400
Total	$4,475

It should be noticed that no economies are counted on in the kindergarten department in grades VII, VIII, and IX, including first assistants to the master, in all masterships, in all supervisorships, and in all positions connected with special branches.

If we add to the above sum, $1,475 The amount already in the budget for unassigned teachers,

We get a total of $5,675 This amount might be used something as follows:

7 unassigned teachers, at average salary of $700, net cost after deducting amount earned in substituting at present rates, $500	$3,500
1 preliminary grammar supervisor	1,500
Total	$5,000

This leaves available for retaining the services of specially strong teachers who receive offers of higher salary elsewhere, $675.

To reach the full normal benefit of these proposed economies, as I stated before, would require two or three years. Yet the $1200 to be appropriated for unassigned teachers, together with such savings as can be made in filling special vacancies now existing or soon to occur, will make it possible to secure at once three good unassigned teachers, and I hope, also, to prevent the loss of any of our best teachers. In filling vacancies which will probably occur at the end of the year, undoubtedly enough can be saved to secure a general supervisor to begin work next September. The four remaining unassigned teachers could be added gradually during the following two years.

Newton Savings Bank.

The regular quarterly meeting of the trustees of the Newton Savings Bank was held Tuesday, October eleventh, the President, Charles T. Pulsifer, presiding.

Only routine business was transacted. The Treasurer's report for the three months ending October ninth duly read and accepted is here given:

Liabilities.
Deposits (due 1500 depositors), $5,888,000.10
Undivided earnings, etc., 80,673.08
Guaranty fund, 165,500.00

Resources.
Loans on real estate, 82,944,349.28
Loans on personal estate, 1,790,143.95
Municipal & Railroad bonds, 1,065,812.50
Bank stock, 9,474.50

Cash on hand and in National banks, 169,789.79
Banking House and other real estate, 92,028.89
Sundry bonds, stocks, etc., 35,555.17

This shows a gain of over $250,000 in deposits since last January ninth and a gain of about $30,000 since July ninth, when the dividend declared was on basis of three and one half per cent per annum.

A gain also is shown of 114 in the number of depositors during the dull summer months since July ninth. The auditors of the bank, Messrs G. S. and H. S. Chase, have completed their quarterly examination of all accounts and securities in verification of the above statement.

The public should realize that the state laws require savings bank funds to be invested in the highest grade of securities. Newspaper report of business troubles sometimes name savings banks as creditors, but it is well for the reader to bear in mind that such debts are invariably secured by mortgage or other good collateral.

A savings bank must carry a proportion of its deposits in city or other bonds that can readily be turned into money. Such bonds now net hardly 3.49 on the investment, a potent argument in favor of the general tendency towards the three and one half per cent dividend basis.

Never has a fair opened in Mechanics' Building, Boston, under such favorable circumstances as that of Boston Council 44, United Commercial Travelers of America. It is for four weeks, about the usual period allotted for those annual industrial exhibitions, and last Monday, with an immense crowd in attendance and with countless exhibits in place and countless amusements under way, it was formally inaugurated.

Now that this big fair has opened, the people of New England have an opportunity to see what commercial travelers have been able to do in this particular line. Their business takes them all over the country, and other countries as well, and from appearances they have all been keeping the present exhibition in mind during their rounds. The entire floor space is covered with booths containing picturesque exhibits and down in the basement is the art gallery and the wonderful "jungle." The show contains all the elements of a musical art exhibit, sportsman's show, vaudeville entertainment, mechanic's fair, food fair, baby show, and many other things not exactly catalogued with any of these.

The interior decorations are chiefly in pale blue and white bunting, and Mechanics' hall is so profusely decorated that it has almost the effect of a great tent of these delicate colors. There are potted plants and evergreen trees to help out the effect, which is kaleidoscopic. The Main Exhibition Hall and Grand Hall abound with interesting and instructive exhibits of industrial and commercial life. The booths are arranged so that it is very easy to get about, broad aisles running in all directions. Upon the stage of the Grand Hall is to be placed, on Saturday next, the living flag, which was such a success during the Grand Army parade in August. The flag is under the same management as on the day of the parade, with six hundred school children participating and thousands of people, who were unable to see it then, will have several opportunities of doing so during the fair. On the platform there are also some very interesting and highly sensational aerial performances. All the stage performances are free, and with the exception of a few reserved seats, the great balcony is open for those who have paid the price of admission to the exposition.

In the Exhibition Hall the whole-some smell of new popcorn and molasses candy are a very small part of the exhibition, for here are some of the most pleasing exhibits of all. New food, new ways of preparing old foods, house furnishings and the like in great variety make up the exhibits, and in many booths attendants are on hand with plenty of samples. The infant incubators are also in this hall.

One of the most interesting features is the Women's Department in the gallery of Exhibition Hall. Here many of the leading firms of Boston and vicinity are showing excellent samples of various lines of goods, and the exhibit as a whole is an object lesson in the advancement of home economy. This department is in charge of Mrs. Ella L. Breed, and the patronesses include a large number of women prominent in women's affairs. Among them are Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, Mrs. May Alden Ward, Miss Helen A. Whittier, and Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead.

Another department which attracts many visitors is the loan art exhibit in the basement of Grand Hall. Here a fine collection of pictures has been gathered, and patrons of the exposition have an opportunity to see the leading works of art. In the society jungle, also in the basement, is a fine collection of wild animals, and a band of trained ponies and dogs which gives frequent performances.

The excursions to the fair from all parts of New England have already started, and during this month there are chances to visit Boston and the exposition at rates which are tempting.

Enough time has elapsed since the recent primary elections to take a fair and unprejudiced view of their operation and scope. There seems to be a general feeling that the new plan has resulted in bringing out a larger attendance than before, showing that the public can be induced to take a greater interest in the important duty of selecting party candidates. The primaries are also valuable in other cities in preventing fraud, corruption and intimidation. Newton being fortunately free from all those vices.

The criticisms of the law are in most respects of a trivial nature, or lacking in a true conception of the nature of a primary election.

We hear that there is a general complaint for instance, that the provision for declaring oneself to be a partisan is obnoxious, unjust and eliminates the secrecy of the ballot. The objection shows that proper consideration has not been given the subject. The primary election takes the place of the old fashioned caucus and is designed to prevent some of the evils which had grown around that excellent institution of our fathers. One of those evils was the participation of members of one party in the deliberations of another. This is practical politics for if enough Democrats participate in a Republican caucus to nominate a weak candidate, the Democratic nominee at the subsequent election will have a greater opportunity to win. This method has been used by both the great parties and in many instances has yielded practical results.

With this evil in mind the primary election law seeks to allow a voter to use but one party ballot and while no law can prevent a Republican from declaring himself a Democrat or vice versa, the fact that such declaration operates as a badge for subsequent primaries is thought to be a sufficient bar to a general movement in that direction. As a matter of fact no self respecting voter would think of participating in the nomination of persons whom he did not intend to support at the polls on election day, but, as the law does not recognize any difference between self respecting citizens and others, the former should and the latter, must do their duty in accordance with law.

In the recent primaries for instance, no person should have voted for Capt. Weeks' nomination for Congress, who would not have been willing to have supported Senator Bemis for that position in case the latter had received the nomination. The idea of participating in the selection of party candidates solely in favor of one individual is neither fair nor right, and we believe it is generally such persons who make the loudest complaints against declaring their partisanship.

A real objection to the present law is the confusion in the mind of the average voter from the fact that in case of selections of delegates, opportunity is given to vote for individual delegates as well as for the delegation as a whole. This defect can be easily remedied by the adoption of a system of direct nominations, which the GRAPHIC has repeatedly urged. In the recent congressional contest for nomination, why should the individual voter be required to cast a ballot for Tom, Dick or Harry when the real fight was between Weeks and Bemis a fact well known to every voter. And yet Newton elected 23 delegates who represented the city at a convention which actually nominated Capt. Weeks. In our humble opinion the average voter can be trusted to select candidates himself, and the delegate system is as antiquated and warped as the old fashioned caucus. With direct nominations, in primary elections, with slight changes in minor details, we believe the system will not only be popular but will give the greatest power to the individual voter, a result which all true citizens desire and for which all should work.

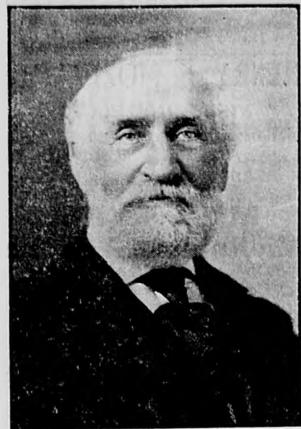

Newton will give a cordial welcome next week to the delegates to the Sunday School convention and in return will have an opportunity to hear the fine speakers who are on the program.

CRAIG-FOSTER.

The wedding of Miss Frances B. Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Foster of Gramercy street, Newton to Dr. Albert B. Craig of Philadelphia took place at the home of the bride on Wednesday evening last.

The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. S. L. B. Spear, in the presence of many friends from Newton, Boston, Buffalo, Scranton, Baltimore, Elizabeth and Philadelphia.

The bride, gowned in white messaline silk, was attended by Miss Marie L. Foster, her sister, as maid of honor, and Dr. J. Leslie Davis of Philadelphia was the best man. The guests were ushered by Messrs. Chas. K. Foster of Bradford, Vt., Willis B. Kirkpatrick of Baltimore and Danforth W. Comins of Boston.

JOSEPH D. WELLINGTON,
City Messenger.

Mr. Joseph D. Wellington, the venerable City Messenger at City Hall will celebrate his eightieth birthday tomorrow. "Uncle Joe" Wellington was born Oct. 15, 1824 in Troy, N. Y. and resided in that city until his removal to Cambridge, Mass., when twenty two years of age. For thirty years he resided in the University city working in the organ pipe business and then changed his residence again to West Newton.

In 1877 during the administration of Mayor Fowle he was appointed City Messenger and has creditably filled that office for twenty seven years. During the Civil War he enlisted in Co. E. 45th Massachusetts Regiment and rendered valiant service to his country.

Mr. Wellington is a member of the Odd Fellows and of its Veteran Association. He is also a member of Chas. Ward Post 62 and a director in the Mass. City Messengers Association. He is married and resides on Washington street West Newton with his wife and daughter. Two sons hold important business positions, one in Baltimore, Md. and the other at Denver, Col.

Mr. Wellington has made many friends during his long service at City Hall who will join in hearty congratulations on his well preserved physical and mental health at the age of four score years.

HARRINGTON-NUTT.

At the Grace Church last Wednesday evening, Miss Aelora Nutt, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nutt of Highland Park, Newtonville, became the bride of Mr. William O. Harrington of the same village. Rev. Dr. Shinn performed the ceremony at 7:30 o'clock and it was followed by a wedding reception from 8:30 to 10 o'clock at the home of the bride.

The bride was gowned in white silk, applique point lace and wore the customary veil and orange blossoms and carried bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Marie Nutt dressed in blue satin with lace trimmings and Miss Nellie Harrington, sister of the groom, gowned in cream crepe de chine. The ushers were Messrs. Elisha Avery and Harry Hickcox of Newtonville and William B. Jenkins of Cleveland, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrington were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nutt and Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Harrington and the house was charmingly decorated with potted plants, carnations and chrysanthemums.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Harrington will be at home after Dec. 1 at 58 Court st, Newtonville.

Clubs and Lodges

A meeting of Channing Council R. A., was held Wednesday evening in Society hall, Nonantum building, Newton. D. D. G. R. William E. Brown and suite were present. After the business session refreshments were served.

The annual social and dance of Middlesex Court, M. C. O. F., was held in Armory hall last Friday evening. About 200 couple were present including H. O. S. Stuart and deputy James A. Desmond. A concert was given from 8 to 9 o'clock by Thomas' Orchestra and dancing followed until 1. The floor directress was Miss Adelaide Murphy and she was assisted by Miss Margaret Green, Miss Mary E. Blake and a corps of aids.

At the Churches.

There will be an organ recital in Grace church at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday. At 3 there will be a service followed by an address on "The Christian Life" by the Bishop of Brazil. Members of the Sunday School Convention and their friends are cordially invited.

At the Universalist church, Newtonville, next Sunday morning the pastor will preach the second sermon in the series on Great Themes. The special topic will be "The Power of Great Experience."

Harvest Sunday was observed at the Newtonville Methodist church last Sunday. The interior was decorated with autumn fruit and foliage and there was a number of old people present at the services. The double quartet has begun its work under the direction of Mr. Ray Finell of Boston with Mr. Blanpede as organist.

A DEMOCRATIC HERITAGE.

Verse Review of Some Things the Party "Fathers" Left Us.

[From the Honesdale (Pa.) Citizen.]

Mayor McVellum of New York city in his speech at the Democratic harmony banquet early in the year said: "The people will trust the Democracy today if it but proves that it has kept unswerving the heritage of the fathers."

There is no difficulty in proving that on various important points this heritage has been faithfully kept.

When the Democratic party retired from power in 1841, after having controlled the government for twelve years under the administrations of Jackson and Van Buren, it left the country a heritage of industrial prostration, due to the practical free trade arising from the sliding scale reductions of the tariff of 1833 and of financial wreck, coupled with wildcat banking, resulting from the panic of 1837.

Under the Whig tariff of 1842 industry revived, but the Democracy, regaining power in 1844, restored the heritage of free trade by the Walker tariff of 1846. Disaster followed, and in 1848 the party was again shorn of power.

In 1852 and again in 1856 the Democratic party was successful. Following the latter victory its heritage of free trade was enlarged by the tariff act of 1857, with its horizontal reductions of 20 per cent. Nine months later the result of this was set forth by the Democratic secretary of the treasury and president. Said Secretary Cobb in his first annual report Dec. 8, 1857:

"Simultaneously with this act going into operation the country is subjected to a disastrous revolution."

Said President Buchanan in his first annual message to congress Dec. 8, 1857:

"Our country, in its monetary interests, is at the present moment in a deplorable condition. We find our manufactures suspended, our public works retarded, our private enterprises of different kinds abandoned and thousands of useful laborers thrown out of employment and reduced to want."

This was the heritage of distress created by the Democracy in 1857 restored twenty years later. In our large cities only the charity soup kitchen stood between the poor man and starvation.

Debt was soon added to distress, and the Democratic heritage of the Mexican war debt, then standing at more than $25,000,000, was rapidly enlarged. Loan followed loan until the public debt rose from $25,155,154.51 to $90,590,737.22. In the meantime the industrial and financial interests of the country continued and suffered from the depression that began in 1857.

In 1863 the Democracy again acquired control of the government, and once more the Democratic heritage of distress and debt was restored to the people. The heritage of distress opened with the wreck of financial interests throughout the country, followed, under the sugar trust tariff, by general industrial prostration. Again the charity soup kitchen had its findings among the workmen of our cities. At the same time the heritage of debt underwent an expansion far beyond that under Buchanan's administration. Loan again followed loan until $252,715,400 was added to the public debt. This was the heritage left to the country when the last Democratic president retired from office in 1867.

So much, at least, of the heritage of the Democratic fathers has been faithfully kept, and today the people can trust the Democracy. If it regains power, to restore the heritage of financial collapse, industrial prostration, the charity soup kitchen, falling revenues and increase of the public debt for current expenses in time of peace, which have been conspicuous products of Democratic rule.

The Democratic Vaudeville. [From the Caledonia Advertiser.] "Our policy is continuous," said President Roosevelt in his speech of acceptance. The Democrats follow the plan of the vaudeville managers and present a new policy at each appearance.

PAINE-CARTER.

A notable fall wedding took place Tuesday at 4 p. m., at the New Jerusalem Church, Newtonville, when Miss Marjorie Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Carter of Newtonville, became the bride of Dr. Alonzo K. Paine of Boston. The Rev. John Goddard performed the ceremony which was witnessed by a large company of guests.

The church was decorated with palms and white chrysanthemums for the occasion.

The bride was gowned in white satin, trimmed with old Duchess lace and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. She was attended by Mrs. William L. Shearer of Brookline, the matron of honor, wearing her wedding dress of liberty satin, trimmed with old Duchess lace, with a large white hat and white plumes. The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Carter, sister of the bride, Miss Helen Spaulding of Winchester, Miss Helen Munroe of Salem and the Misses Evelyn Carter, Edith Spaulding and Grace Whitmore of West Newton, gowned alike in white point d'esprit, picture hats with hand painted pink roses and pale blue background on the brim, and carrying pink pinks tied with pink ribbon.

The best man was James H. Barnard of Norrell and the ushers Thomas Weston, Jr., of Newton, Donald W. Howes of New York, Edgar W. Leonard of West Newton, Theodore Barnard of Boston, Raymond Carter of Newtonville brother of the bride, and Barton Leonard of Brookline.

A reception from 4:30 to 6 at the Newton Club followed the church ceremony. The couple were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Lucius K. Paine.

The music was furnished by a string trio, including Leon Van Vliet, cellist, under the direction of Mr. A. H. Handley.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, Dr. and Mrs. Paine will reside during the winter at the Parker House.

Death of Mr. Edwin E. Worden.

Mr. Edwin E. Worden, a resident of Newton for the past thirteen years died at his home on Pearl street last Wednesday evening after a few days illness following a stroke of apoplexy. Mr. Worden was born in Pittsford, Vt. and was nearly sixty five years of age. He was a construction and electrical engineer by trade and had held many important positions, including that of head engineer for the Quincy Market Cold Storage Co. of Boston for sixteen years. He retired from business in June of last year. During the civil war he served in the 16th Pennsylvania Cavalry.

Mr. Worden is survived by a widow, three sons, John O., Fred A. and Edwin S. Worden and two daughters, Mrs. Benj. S. Rich and Miss Mary C. Worden. He was a member of St. Paul Lodge A. F. and M. of Brandon, Vt. and of Mt. Calvary Commandery K. T. of Middlebury, Vt.

Funeral services will be held from his late residence on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

High School Notes.

The school team defeated the Dedham High School team last Friday by a score of 21 to 11. During the last half Philip Campbell, a Newton tackle, had his ankle broken, and Bernard Dow, also a Newton player, was rendered unconscious by a kick on the back of the head.

Newton High and Volkman played a 0-0 game last Tuesday afternoon.

Six sophomores furnished much amusement in Newtonville Square on Wednesday morning. They were being initiated into the Phi Beta Society.

Dr. Edward Everett Hale will speak in the High School Hall, Newtonville, Oct. 27, at 4 p. m. on Some Characteristics of the late Senator Hoar. This will prove an event in the history of the school to be classed with the lecture of Senator Hoar given at the same place on Roger Sherman.

DEATH OF MRS. LYDIA H. HOLMES.

Mrs. Lydia Hobbs Holmes wife of S. Welles Holmes passed away at her home on Park street last Saturday after a several months' illness. She was a native of Boston and was the daughter of the late Prentiss Hobbs. Deceased had been a resident of Newton for many years and was one of the earliest members of Grace church. She was a woman of sterling qualities, had a most lovable and kindly disposition and her death will be a great loss to her family, the church and the community in which she moved. Her husband, two sons and four daughters survive her. The funeral services, which were largely attended by relatives and friends were held from the family residence, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. Dr. George W. Shinn. There was a profusion of floral tributes. The interment was at Watertown.

The will of the late Isaac T. Burr, was allowed by Judge McIntire in the Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge Tuesday morning. Deceased left an estate of $2,500,000 in personal property and $50,000 in real estate.

Two sons of the testator, Isaac T. Burr, Jr., of Milton and Allison Burr of Newton, were appointed administrators and trustees. They furnished bonds of $5,000,000 each. All the property was left to near relatives.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

MIDDLESEX, ss.

At the Police Court of Newton, in the District of Middlesex, in the County of Middlesex, docketed at said Court on the Seventh day of October, A. D. 1904, John A. Gould of Newton v. Charles H. Hale of Newton, and Frank J. Hale, Executor.

This is an action of contract to recover the sum of seven hundred dollars alleged to be due to the Plaintiff from the Defendant, on the ninth day of September, A. D. 1904, as set forth in the Plaintiff's writ of that date. And it appearing to the Court, by the suggestion of the Plaintiff, and on inspection of the officer's return on the Plaintiff's writ, that the Defendant is not an inhabitant of this Commonwealth, nor was resident therein at the time of the service of the writ, and that he has no last and usual place of abode, tenant, agent or attorney in this Commonwealth, known to the Plaintiff, or to said officer, and that no personal service of said writ has been made upon the Defendant.

It is ordered by the Court, here, that the Plaintiff give notice to the Defendant of the pendency of this action, and to appear before said Court, to be held at Newton, in said County, on the 10th day of November next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to answer to the same, by causing an attested copy of this Order to be published in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper printed in Newton in said County, once a week (three weeks successively), the last publication to be at least seven days before the said fifth day of November next; and that said action be continued until notice shall be given to said Defendant, agreeably to this Order.

Letter to C. C. Clapp, Newtonville,

Dear Sir: Would you rather have your customers speak of your shoes as wearing well, as not running down at the heel, as turning water, and taking a shine, or wag their heads and say nothing?

We'd rather have ours, at long intervals, say: "We want some more paint, and we want Devco." We know it isn't in human nature to paint very often; we don't expect 'em to come very often; don't want 'em to. All we want is to paint what they have to paint whenever they paint it; the longer the time the sun and they are to come back. There's business enough in the world; there are houses enough to paint; let 'em take their time.

If we were a shoemaker, we'd make shoes to last half a lifetime, and shoe the whole town.

Yours truly

DARTMOUTH-WILLIAMS.

Meeting for the 18th time in the history of their traditional football rivalry and for the fourth time on the Newton A. A. field in Newton Centre, the Williams and Dartmouth eleven will clash at 3 p. m. October 15 on the Cedar street grounds. The rise of Dartmouth to almost the first rank in college football greatly increases the number of people who will see the coming game.

Harvard will be away, playing at West Point, and while hitherto it has been a distinctly Dartmouth-Williams crowd which has witnessed the hard-fought contests here, there will be an additional contingent from Cambridge in Newton next week, coming expressly to see how Coach Folsom has been able to fill the six vacancies in his 1903 eleven and what chance, if any Dartmouth has of duplicating her last year's record with respect to Harvard.

Those, however, who expect to see the Williams team used as a trial horse by the gridiron warriors from Hanover, reckon without the fighting spirit which has enabled the purple year after year, from a student body half as large as Dartmouth's to develop a team which gives Dartmouth a genuine championship battle, one of the stiffest in her whole schedule.

Williams men say that Dartmouth's exceptional team of a year ago has been riddled by graduation and by death; that their own team has a veteran line, and that their backfield and their punting, while hopelessly weak against Harvard, are being developed very rapidly under the Yale coaching of Ely. The old quarter-back for the blue. Reputation won a year ago will certainly not defeat the husky combatants from Williamstown and it should be added that however for midable Dartmouth's team may seem to be, the captains and coaches at Hanover breathe more freely when the Williams game is tucked away and decided.

Both teams will be quartered before the game in Newton, at the Woodland Park hotel, Abniradale. Williams, however, will spend "the night before" at the Copley Square Hotel in Boston, and will only appear in Newton in time to lunch and rest. Messrs E. K. Hall and E. B. Bowen are, as usual, the Newton men who are giving the city its annual "big game," and they announce that preparations are practically complete. Tickets for the match on either the Dartmouth or the Williams side of the field may be obtained from them, and are also on sale in Boston at Wright and Ditson's.

HON. JOHN W. WEEKS, Republican Nominee for Congress.

HON. WM. F. DANA,
Republican Nominee for Senator.

Under the able management of Secretary William F. Garcelon of Newton, the Massachusetts Club had a most successful outing at Mt. Tom, Holyoke, and an enthusiastic banquet Saturday Oct. 1, at Springfield. Hon. Henry E. Cobb of this city participated in the affair and Congressman Powers was one of the speakers.

Mr. Powers' reference to Senator Hoar is given in full:

"A great life has ended. Measured by almost any standard, Mr. Hoar must be regarded as one of the great men of his generation. He possessed the virtues of a Puritan ancestry and many of the best traits of character of a former generation. His love for liberty was intense. He was the defender of the weak against the strong. His sympathies were easily excited on the behalf of the oppressed. No man of our day was more tolerant of the views of others. Upon all questions of policy and religion his views were broad and liberal. His tastes were scholarly, his mind most retentive, and he was without doubt the best equipped man in American public life in historical and literary attainments. He was a master of English diction, terse, forceful and at the same time elegant."

"He was with the republican party at its birth, and was with it to the day of his death. He was a thorough believer in all the great cardinal principles of the party to which he belonged. He thoroughly believed in the principles of the protective policy, and has always been proud to refer to his home city of Worcester, a teeming hive of diverse industries, as one of the best illustrations of what had been accomplished under that policy. Unfortunately he was unable to be in accord with his party regarding its Philippine policy. In the first place he doubted the expediency of the acquisition of territory in the far east, which made it necessary to set up a government more or less colonial in its operation. His love of liberty was so strong that he was willing to trust the Filipinos with self government. Holding these views he was forced to oppose a great administrative policy of his own party."

"That he did this honestly, no one will doubt, and he maintained his opposition to the policy with great ability and remarkable courage. There were many who believed that these views would lead him to sever his relations with his party, but his love for that party was so great that he could not do it."

"In the Panama controversy he maintained the same views although the questions involved differed widely from those which arose in the administration of affairs in the Philippines."

"His life was one of devotion to his country and humanity. His character was bold, aggressive, fearless. He permitted no other to point out for him the line of duty. He allowed no one to dictate his course of action."

He had implicit confidence in the great mass of American people. "His chosen profession was always dear to him, and there can be no question that if he had remained out of public life and been a servant of the law he would have achieved a great reputation and a place in the foremost rank at the American bar, but no one will question but that he chose wisely when he decided to give his life work to the service of his country. No one has performed that service with greater devotion and few with greater ability."

Real Estate.

Mr. Henry H. Read has sold for the account of E. A. Shaw a lot of land on the easterly side of Chesley road, Newton Centre bounded 100 feet on Chesley road by 130 feet deep containing in all 3149 square feet.

Greenwood's Real Estate Agency have leased the House No. 46 Columbus street to Mr. Proctor; No. 22 Terrace avenue to Mr. Carter; No. 78 Floral street to Mr. Wait; No. 24 Lincoln street, apartments to Myron C. Ayers and another to Geo. E. King; Apartment on Terrace avenue to Mr. Keeler; house No. 69 Allerton road to Mr. Hutchinson.

Edward T. Harrington and Co. have sold for Chelsea Savings Bank the estate numbered 120 Elliot avenue West Newton, to Albert E. Bailey principal of the Allen School. The estate consists of a 10 room house with 7500 feet of land the whole being assessed for $6400. The large increase in attendance at the Allen school necessitates increased accommodations and the property will be utilized for that purpose.

Edward T. Harrington and Co. through their agent W. H. Rand have sold for W. M. Lisle the estate 17 Perkins street to a prominent instructor for his occupancy. The estate consists of a 10 room house with 10000 feet of land. Also for George I. Clarke the estate 819 Watertown street to Wm. E. Tomlinson who buys for occupancy and will make extensive alterations. The estate consists of a 10 room house with 68000 feet of land the whole being assessed for $5400.

Police Paragraphs.

About 3:30 Tuesday morning, officers Goode and Bates captured John J. Boyce of Chapel street, Nonantum, as he was attempting to enter the house of Reuben Forknall on California street. The officers saw him kneel before the door and endeavor to use a skeleton key. He was held by Judge Kennedy in $500 bonds for the grand jury.

Political Notes.

Mr. Frank D. Friebie, president of the Ward One Republican Club is reported to be a candidate for alderman at large from Ward 1 to succeed Alderman Barber who retires.

At the Theatres

Coming Attractions

Grand Opera House.—That celebrated character, "Happy Hooligan," who has become world famous is illustrated in the successful, funny musical farce by that title which will play its annual engagement at the Grand Opera House next week. It shows especially what things are done and said by that well-meaning, amiable, obliging, accommodating, very polite, urbane, courteous person who always means well but always comes to grief. The scenes are from the pen sketches of F. Oppen in the illustrated comic weeklies, and Frank Dumont, the author of this latest bit of fun, has turned out the best work of his career. The usual matinees will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Keith's Theatre.—The special feature of the vaudeville show at Keith's the week of Oct. 17 will be Jean Marcel's bas reliefs, a species of living pictures that has enjoyed a great vogue the past two seasons. The models employed are all from the ateliers of famous French artists, and their posing is pronounced the most artistic that has ever been witnessed in America. Mon. Germinal, a noted French operatic singer, will attract the music lovers in large numbers, as he is pronounced the best male vocalist who has ever been heard in the varieties. Yorke and Adams, favorite Hebrew comedians and parody singers; Zeno, Carl and Zeno; aerial acrobats; Irving Jones, favorite "real coon" singer and story teller; Paulton and Dooley, two of the cleverest trick and fancy bicycle riders in the world, and Leroy and Clayton, in an Irish dialect comedy sketch, "A Horse on Hogan," will be some of the prominent entertainers in the bill. "Mike," a marvelously trained dog, will be the special feature for the juveniles.

"PARSIFAL" IN ENGLISH.

No event in recent years has excited more interest among the music-lovers of New England than the forthcoming performances of "Parsifal" in English, which Henry W. Savage's company will give at the Tremont Theatre in Boston, the weeks of October 17th and 24th. Any one who would have said a few years ago that Americans would soon be able to hear the last and greatest of Wagner's music-dramas performed in English, which is the only artistic form possible, would have been adjudged insane.

Yet Mr. Savage's enterprise and persistence has made a reality of what has been the dream of nearly all operatic managers since "Parsifal" had its first performance in Bayreuth, in July, 1882. The task of preparation has been an enormous one. It is almost a year since Mr. Savage began the work, and rehearsals have been going on constantly since last July. Mr. Savage has organized a company composed of specially selected singers from America and Europe which will be fully adequate to the exacting task of interpreting this great work. His scenery and costumes have been made from Bayreuth models. His orchestra is the result of scouring the country for good instrumentalists. His conductors are young and enthusiastic musicians who stand in the very front rank of their art in Germany. Neither time, expense, nor effort has been spared in the preparations to present this sacred music drama in a manner worthy of its character. The interest exhibited in New England is already so great that even now arrangements are being made for special excursions which will carry music lovers to Boston, especially for the matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

The time schedule of the matinee performances has so been arranged that it will be possible to go to Boston at a comfortable hour in the morning, and be back again well in time for dinner. Owing to the fact that "Parsifal" is to be given absolutely without cuts, hours have been set for the beginning and ending of the acts which will be rigidly adhered to.

The matinee performances will begin at 11 o'clock precisely. The first act will end at 12:45, when there will be an intermission of an hour and a quarter for luncheon. The second act beginning at 2 o'clock will end at 3, and the third act beginning at 3:15 will end at 4:15.

The scale of prices will be such as to put "Parsifal" within the reach of all classes. The entire lower floor will be $3.00; the entire first balcony $2.00 and the entire second balcony $1.00.

The sale of seats will begin at the Tremont Theatre box office on Tuesday morning, October 11th.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of Michael Menagher, late of Newton in said County, deceased.

WHEREAS, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Johanna J. Menagher, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to her the executrix therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-fifth day of October A. D. 1904, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing postpaid, or otherwise, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, CHARLES J. McINTIRE, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this thirtieth day of September in the year one thousand nine hundred and four.

W. E. ROGERS, Asst. Register.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the subscriber has been duly appointed executor of the will of John J. Denn, late of Newton, in the County of Middlesex, deceased, testate, and has taken upon herself that trust by giving bond, as the law directs. All persons having demands upon the estate of said deceased are hereby required to exhibit the same and all persons indebted to said estate are called upon to make payment to WORN OUT?

If you are discouraged and despondent and wish to die, it is not because everything is black before you. It is simply because your vitality is so low and you are so weak that you have not the courage to face a lifetime.

Eminent physicians have been attracted by similar cases and after making a careful and scientific study of their requirements have compounded a remedy called Vin-Tone, which builds up body and mind in a remarkably short time.

Vitality is what you need and vitality is what Vin-Tone gives.

We tell you of this preparation hoping it may find its way into every home where man, woman or child is suffering from lack of energy.

Vin-Tone can be procured at a very trivial expense and will build up your system as it has thousands of others.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Resolutions Adopted Regarding the Late Senator Hoar.

Many Additional Appropriations Authorized—Alderman Sweeney Thanks the Board.

The board met in regular session at 7:45 p. m., Vice President Carter in the chair.

Present Aldermen Baker, Barber, Bishop, Bowen, Brown, Cabot, Ellis, Ensign, Hunt, Johnson, Riley, Sweeney, Webster, Weston and White.

HOAR RESOLUTIONS.

Alderman Bishop for the select committee on the death of Senator Hoar reported the following resolutions.

WHEREAS—Honorable George Frisbie Hoar, senior United States senator from Massachusetts, has recently died at his home in Worcester, therefore,

RESOLVED that the citizens of Newton, through the Board of Aldermen, desire to place on perpetual record their appreciation of the sterling qualities of manhood and statesmanship which he possessed. Born of the best blood of New England, reared in her schools and surrounded by her traditions, he exhibited in his life a constant endeavor to attain to her noblest ideals both in private and in public life. He was an accomplished scholar, a statesman without guile and an orator of the first rank. His human sympathies were world wide, his integrity spotless, his pursuit of truth tireless, an he was ever the ready champion of the poor, the weak and the lowly. In politics he was an independent partisan who feared nothing so much as to be in the wrong even though he was with the majority. In early life, relinquishing a congenial profession which was yielding him constantly increasing emoluments, he consecrated himself to the service of his country and for thirty five years stood in the front rank of our national legislators. To the rising generation he has left as a rich and priceless legacy an example of a thoroughly sincere man who cherished deep convictions of duty and stood for all that is highest, noblest and purest in the life of the nation.

RESOLVED that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of Mr. Hoar.

Alderman Bishop: To us all, I think, there has come in the last few weeks a feeling of sorrow, of almost personal grief, in the passing of our late senior senator, George Frisbie Hoar.

Some of you remember his entrance into National politics in the troublous years just following the Civil War, and you remember the active and important part he played in bringing the North and South together once more into a firm and united nation, into a nation whose corner stone is Justice and whose foundation is freedom and liberty for all within her borders. But to us of the younger generation to whom the history of the sixties, the seventies and the early eighties is but history, and not a vivid recollection of stirring deeds fraught with peril to the nation's welfare, there stands forth through all these years, preeminent, a figure strong and rugged as the elms of his adopted city, simple and pure minded as the beauties of his native town.

A lovable nature, genius, learning ability, wisdom, a pure sense of honor, he had them all. And throughout the magnificent uprightness and dignity of every hour of his life there stands forth with striking clearness that characteristic, so common to all who bear his name, so common that it seems almost a birthright, "the determination to do what he had to do with all his might; to do it as one who had been sent to do it in an infinite purpose of an infinite God." Whatever his hand found to do, that did he with his might.

His was a life of many and varied duties, full of the cares and perplexities of public life, but more than all, above all, as was said by Dr. Hale, his life was filled full, "so full that no one can describe that, but always filled full of something large, unselfish, thoroughly generous; something that he expected others to share with him, something which would make the world a better world." This and his firm and abiding faith in the American people, and in their ability ultimately to solve the vast and perplexing problems of self government, a faith which expressed itself so magnificently over and again in his public utterances made him the gentleman and the statesman whom we loved to honor and whose memory we shall ever fondly cherish.

Alderman Ellis: I take great pleasure in seconding the resolutions proposed by the Committee. It had been my pleasure and satisfaction to know Senator Hoar well, personally, for a great many years. I touched upon another side from that which has been seen by most of you, that is, in the councils of the Church to which he belonged and of which he was not only an honored member but in its National councils, an officer and leader, as in politics, the independent partisan. He stood for his church and all there was in it and yet he recognized the good in other churches; protestants and catholics alike have paid him honor. Dr. Withrow in his sermon last Sunday referred to the very strong feeling, (and it was a strong feeling that Senator Hoar had) with reference to church going. It is very well known that we Unitarians are not supposed to be very strong church goers, but Senator Hoar stood for that as much as anything. He was never in Worcester on Sunday, in good health, but what he was in church, and I think the same can be said of him in Washington. Whatever he took in hand, politics or religion, he gave the very best there was in him to the cause. I take great pleasure in seconding the resolutions.

Alderman Ensign: I think the proper tribute on the part of this Board has been well paid by the Aldermen who just preceded me, but I would like to say just a word. While we regret that Senator Hoar has departed from us there is much to be said. I remember well the time when an honored man of one party died the papers and often men of other parties were not accustomed to pay the respect they ought. We have, in the death of Senator Hoar a splendid example of the way in which all the leading preachers and political leaders have paid him tribute. I think this is a splendid feature; other countries do it. Great Britain has always, when a man made his influence felt in politics of his country, paid him honor and respect, but it were not so in this country until the present day and it is fine to note the tribute that has been paid to this late Senator.

The resolutions were then adopted by a rising vote.

RECESS.

From 8:20 to 8:45 o'clock for meetings of committees.

Upon reassembling reports were received from the Committee on Finance recommending grant of $26,092.50 for city expenses to Nov. 15: for additional appropriations of $3500 for interest on Temporary Loans $1900 for Health Dept. Newton Hospital, $1000 for Charity Dept. Sick Poor, $280. for interest on Permanent Loans, $1500 for Water Dept. Fuel; recommending certain transfers of appropriations: favorable to $30000 water loan; relative to apportioning sewer assessments, and approving sewer construction in Waban Hill road and Chapel st.

The report of the Committee on Public Works favorable to sewer construction in Chapel street was received, and an order for construction was subsequently read twice and adopted.

Alderman Sweeney: Before we take up motions and orders I wish to say a word in regard to the park and playground which has been completed in the district which I represent. I wish to thank the Board for having made the appropriation which made the park possible and especially the Public Works Committee for having come there to see the land. We also feel deeply grateful to the Mayor for having approved the appropriation and also to the park commissioners who heartily cooperated with the City and appropriating $750 towards the project, making a beach along the river for about two hundred yards. We thank the Board of Aldermen for it and are deeply appreciative of it and for the benefit of those who have not seen the good they did when they gave us this $500 appropriation we would like to have them come down and see for themselves what a fine park and playground they gave us.

Alderman Ensign: It certainly is very gratifying to the Aldermen to hear the remarks of Alderman Sweeney and I am glad that the people of that section feel pleased with what we did for them. It is the intention of the board to do all it can for all sections of the City and I am certainly glad that the people of this district feel kindly toward the Board of Aldermen for its action.

ORDERS READ TWICE AND ADOPTED.

Taking land for sewer in and for sewer construction in Sullivan ave: reducing betterment assessment of G. M. Republican Editors.

One of the most effective meetings of the present campaign was held at Youngs Hotel, Boston, last Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Republican Editorial Association.

The speaking of Dr. A. E. Winship, president of the Association, Governor John L. Bates, Congressman Sereno E. Payne of New York and Lieut Gov. Curtis Guild Jr., was straight to the point, and delivered most eloquently. Gov. Bates, in well rounded sentences, gave adequate reasons for his recent veto of the "overtime" bill Congressman Payne in a pleasing conversational tone answered Mr. Olney's New York speech, and General Guild spoke briefly on protection.

The meeting was also enlivened with the singing of "Just tell us when your ready, Teddy" and by a recitation by Dr. Ball of Ohio.

We give Dr. Winship's address in full:

"The cause of labor in Massachusetts sets has never had so much at stake in any one day as it will have on November 8th. One hundred per cent. more has been done to improve labor conditions in this state than in any other equal area and population on the globe. Wages, hours, safety, convenience and comfort for workmen were earliest improved and have been the best promoted here. The wages in the cotton mills are practically double what they are in the southern mills that jeopardize ours.

"Labor has never gotten aught that is important by way of legislation from any Democratic or doubtful state until long after it had been accomplished in some Republican state. Massachusetts has never done anything in her history from fear or in response to a threat. All that she has accomplished for labor, education and civic virtue has come from an earnest purpose to right humanity's wrongs. She is courageous for the right and equally so in defiance of a threat.

"If the cause of labor is to be benefited in the future as in the past in this state it must appeal to our sense of justice and not to our timidity.

"Never has Massachusetts had a governor who from first to last has been more attentive to and interested in the toiler than now. He has uniformly befriended labor during twelve years of public life. In city and state, upon the floor of the House, in the Speakers chair, and in the chief executive office he has been accessible to the representatives of labor and keenly sympathetic to their requests. In him labor has always found a friend. This year his judgment did not coincide with that of the specialists who led in the effort to secure unusual legislation for textile workers. In his opinion, under the present terrific strain to which New England cotton manufacturers have been put, it is not a good time to place upon them unnecessary burdens. At a time when these manufacturers need all their energy to counteract the competition of low wages, long hours, child labor and woman labor in the South, there should be absolutely no chaffing, no legislative nagging. As a friend of labor he differed in judgment with other friends of labor. Because of this difference among friends the drum major of the opposing candidate attempts a spectacular leadership of an effort to punish the chief executive of the state for not being their slave rather than the servant of the people and the friend of labor.

"Will the labor leaders allow no man to be their friend who is not their slave? The Republicans of Massachusetts have been the friends of labor from the first. Friends they would like to be. Slaves they will never be, and no man can ever occupy the executive chamber with their consent who has not the courage to think and speak and act for all the people. The advice of any man, the appeal of any class will receive the courteous and friendly attention of her governor, but the threat, 'your signature or your defeat' has never won, will never win in the Old Bay State.

"The Republican editors of Massachusetts are proud to honor the courageous and devoted friend of the people, his Excellency, John L. Bates."

MR. H. C. HARDON

To Retire From Boston School.

Recent Clipping From Boston Globe.

With a record as an instructor to youth such as any man or woman might be proud of, Henry C. Hardon, the veteran master of the Shurtleff grammar school for girls, is about to retire to a well earned rest at the age of 75, after 54 years' continuous service as a Boston school teacher.

Mr. Hardon is in many ways a remarkable man, and not the least of his attributes is the fact that, although he began to teach in Boston when methods of teaching were somewhat primitive, he has yet kept pace with the march of progress in all departments of school work.

More than that, he has himself blazed the way for innovations in grammar-school instruction, for it was he who originated the sewing exhibit, with work accomplished on the desks of the pupils, and the "visitation" day that is now so important a part of public school life.

Today Mr. Hardon's silvery hair tops a brain that is just as alert as it ever was, his eyes are as bright and penetrating as when he first began to teach the young idea to shoot, and his step is almost as elastic as of yore.

Doubtless he could go on in his accustomed grooves and render satisfactory service to the school board and the public for several more years, but he feels that he has earned a rest now and as he puts the matter himself he would rather people expressed surprise that he should retire from his position now than that they should by and by wonder, behind his back, why he didn't retire.

Accordingly, on Oct. 4, he sent to the school committee his resignation, to take effect Jan. 1, 1906, after the one year's leave of absence, with half pay, usually granted in such cases.

Had his own wishes been followed, he would have resigned some time ago, but in deference to the unanimous request of his staff of teachers, all of whom hold him in the highest esteem and respect, he consented to defer his retirement a little.

From the outset Mr. Hardon has been one of the hardest and most systematic workers among the teachers of Boston, and so great has been his love of the work that he has given much out of his own pocket to the cause of education, as represented by his own schools.

The present fine library of the Shurtleff school, South Boston, of which he has been principal for 35 years, bears eloquent testimony to his generosity in this respect, some of its most valuable collections having been contributed by him.

His influence has extended far beyond the bounds of his own schools, too, for in his capacity as president of the state association of teachers and through the reading of many papers before various educational bodies, he has done much to imbue others with his own knowledge and inspire them with his own enthusiasm.

Of special significance in this connection is the fact that the Shurtleff school, under his administration, has graduated fully 100 bright girls, who afterward became teachers. Forty or fifty of these are serving today in Boston and its vicinity, and seven or eight are in the Shurtleff school itself.

A native of Massachusetts himself, no one has ever taken a deeper interest in the educational system of this state or worked harder to keep its standard high.

Mr. Hardon was born in Mansfield, Aug. 9, 1829. His father was a farmer in that town, and young Hardon had all the various experiences that usually fall to the lot of the boy upon a New England farm.

Fortune willed that he should not himself grow up to be an agriculturist, however. In early life he went south and was enabled to add to the knowledge acquired in the district school in Mansfield by attending a seminary in Martinsville, Va.

Even there, however, his hard work was not entirely confined to his studies, and for a time he carried the night mail over practically the same route that Gen. Phil Sheridan took during his famous ride to Winchester some years later.

His intention had been to prepare himself for the career of a civil engineer, but, like many another, fate willed that his talents should be turned in another direction.

At the age of 17 he was asked to teach a while in a country log school-house, and taught two terms of three months each, in this way unconsciously shaping his future destiny.

Coming north again and visiting Boston he taught for a while at the farm school for boys on Thompsons island, Boston harbor.

Afterward, in May, 1850, he was appointed a teacher in the famous old Hawes school of South Boston, and thus began a connection with the Boston school system that has continued unbrokenly ever since, and has been wholly confined to the peninsula.

When Mr. Hardon took up his work in the Hawes school the population of South Boston was only about 12,000. He has lived to see it grow to about 80,000, its personal and physical characteristics meanwhile having undergone a remarkable change.

Coincidentally, the character of the Boston school buildings and methods of instruction have likewise grown vastly different.

In the course of an interesting conversation with a Globe reporter the other day, Mr. Hardon recalled that when he first began to teach here, there were only two school buildings existing to typify the more modern structure and method. All the others were comparatively small buildings, divided substantially into two rooms, the teachers of each exchanging places as the hour for writing, grammar, arithmetic or geography—the principal studies then—came around.

Sewing and cooking classes, nature studies, gardening, gymnastics, visiting days, kindergartens, basket ball and the palatial grammar and high school structures of the present day were at that period largely undreamed of in the philosophy of the educator.

After remaining a little more than six years at the Hawes school, Mr. Hardon served nine years in the Mather and Lawrence schools. His splendid work in these schools led to his appointment as master of the Bigelow school district which was then very large including part of the John A. Andrew and Thomas N. Hart districts of the present day.

The Shurtleff district was later created out of the Bigelow district, and Mr. Hardon, who had latterly been concerned more with the education of girls was appointed master of this school.

This happened 35 years ago—in itself a long span in the life of an average teacher—and Mr. Hardon's great work has been accomplished under the roof of this well-known Dorchester-st school building.

About five years after coming to the Shurtleff school Mr. Hardon, realizing how important it is for parents, especially mothers, to keep in personal touch with the school work of their children, established the now universally adopted visitation day, and also other special days of visiting and exhibition. Supt. Philbrick was in charge of the Boston schools at that time, and was present on the first day the new idea was put into operation.

So much interested have the parents of the pupils always been in this that visitation day has sometimes brought 300 or 400 to the school.

Mr. Hardon has usually seized these opportunities to have some friendly heart-to-heart talks with the parents of the children, along the line of their own duty as mentors of their boys and girls, and he feels certain that much good has come of this.

The venerable principal is never wearied also of giving practical advice to the pupils themselves, collectively and individually, and it is his great delight to get them all together in the hall and preach to them a little lay sermon on deportment, industry, personal cleanliness and other matters of importance to the growing girl.

His talks take even the practical form of advice about the proper care of the pupil's teeth, and the relation this bears to their future health and happiness.

"I always try," he says, "to give the pupils some little hint that will turn their thoughts in the direction of future usefulness and help them to be of service to themselves and others."

When a Globe man called on him the master was addressing one of the lower grade classes and helping its youthful members to straighten out some little problem in arithmetic.

When he had finished he turned to the children and said: "Well, girls, does it seem a little easier to understand now?"

"Yes, sir," went up a chorus of youthful voices, and there was a sort of thank-you-very-much tone to it, too.

One of Mr. Hardon's special interests is, and always has been, music. Since he has been in charge of a school it has always been his endeavor to give his pupils the very best musical instruction possible. Music and drawing have also been given a prominent place in the Shurtleff school curriculum.

To his caller from the Globe office, Mr. Hardon exhibited some excellent examples of black and white work by the members of the ninth grade of last year, and the evident pride he took in them certainly was well founded.

Another bright idea of Mr. Hardon's has been in having the annual school graduations take place in the evening, "tor," as he says, "it often happens that the father, who has to earn the living for the family, is unable to come to the school during the daytime and meet the teacher and see how his child is progressing even once in the entire school career of that child."

Under the present system, it is noticeable that many fathers now attend the graduations.

In many of the homes of the pupil not only is the vocabulary in use limited in respect to the number of words but these are not always chosen with the best effect. Mr. Hardon has always endeavored to counteract this home influence by criticising the speech of the pupils, and he says that most of them are ambitious to speak as correctly as their teachers.

Mr. Hardon has very definite views on many of the mooted questions of education. He believes in physical culture, but not in giving undue prominence to gymnastics, and he is inclined to think that grammar school studies have become too multifarious and that the pupils are forced through school in too short a time.

He also looks with disfavor upon the tendency of many boys and girls to take a single year's course in the high schools, and then go to work, merely for the sake of the prestige that attaches to having "attended high school."

Asked whether, in his opinion, the public schools are becoming too much "feminized," as suggested by a recent Globe symposium, he replied: "It would do no great harm if we had a few more men teachers in our schools."

In his talks with teachers, Mr. Hardon never tires of impressing upon them the fact that the work they are doing is one of the noblest that can be done for humanity, and that they should bring to that work the very best that is in them.

Likewise, he is always emphasizing to pupils the truth that nothing in life that is really worth having can ever be obtained without hard work and much sacrifice.

The relations between Mr. Hardon and the school board and superintendent have always been most cordial, and the same is true with reference to the parents of his pupils, the pupils themselves and the teachers under him.

Of the latter, he said the other day: "They are one of the finest staffs of teachers it has ever been my good fortune to be associated with, and my assistant, Miss Peniman, who has been with me many years and is also about to retire, is one of the most excellent and faithful instructors the Boston school system ever possessed."

In his long term of service, Mr. Hardon has enjoyed the best of health, and, aside from the usual vacations, has missed very few days from school. It has been his habit to reach the school building about an hour before the opening time and to remain until everything requiring attention is disposed of.

In all these years he has been a diligent student, as well as a conscientious instructor, and today he is thoroughly abreast of the times in all departments of practical knowledge.

One of the most delightful events in his school routine is the annual reunion of the Shurtleff school graduates. These are always largely attended and the affection and friendship which his old pupils retain for their teacher is always the keynote of the occasion.

Mr. Hardon spent a few weeks in Europe, 12 years ago, and it is not improbable that he may make another visit, after he begins his "vacation."

Just now he is greatly interested in the study of Spanish and the literature of Spain, and has some thoughts of visiting those parts of the West Indies that were formerly under the domination of that country.

Mr. Hardon resides in Newton where he is highly esteemed.

ECONOMIC MODERN HEATING VIEW

Coal was first discovered to be available for fuel in 1728 by a blacksmith named Hoville living at Nancy in France. He learned its combustible properties while using what were then called "black stones" to bank his charcoal forge fire. Discovering that they would burn with good heating results, he continued to use the "stones" and gradually their use has extended until in the year 1903 the consumption of coal in America alone amounted to about 345,000,000 tons. Unquestionably the supply is practically inexhaustible, but as men may be compelled to dig deeper for it, with increased mining expenses, the subject of its economical use is one of great importance.

At the present time property owners of all classes are more and more becoming interested in forms of apparatus for steam and water warming which burn hard and soft coal or coke, and which extract and utilize such a large measure of the heat value of coal that the demand for such apparatus is rapidly increasing. These forms of heaters not only produce very sharp and effective combustion but in connection with various forms of heating radiators they thoroughly distribute the warmth to all parts of the building. Measured by the uniform and reliable results they produce they are unquestionably the most economical appliances now in use.

It is a noteworthy fact that while even a decade or so ago steam and hot water heating was considered a rich man's luxury to be afforded only by the favored few, today these methods are being introduced by the thousands into the more modest cottage homes of our country. A very large majority of property owners (especially in urban districts) in building consider the merits of these modern, sanitary means of comfort, healthfulness and home cheer and an increasing number purchase every year. With good judgment many conclude that it is the part of wisdom to reduce expenditures for things which are less consequential and put their money into good reliable heating apparatus.

It is also noticeable that landlords who formerly rented their hotels, and apartments and other leased properties subject to the fire risks, dirt, damage and discomforts of stoves and other cheap forms of heating apparatus, are increasingly demonstrating the better judgment of equipping their buildings with steam and water heating outfits, which eliminate the risk, dirt and damage and increase the rental returns.

In fact, the investment feature attending the purchase of the highly improved modern cast iron steam and hot water heating apparatus is a matter of prime importance. Buildings so equipped become permanently more valuable to live in, to rent or to sell. While cheaper forms of heating apparatus by average will endure ten years and then go on the scrap heap, a good cast iron steam or water boiler and the radiators used therewith will last as long as the building—practically indestructible by use. So an investment in steam or water apparatus is not an expense item, but means an addition to permanent property value.

HAWLEY-THAYER.

Guests from the Newtons, New York, Springfield, Fitchburg, Amherst and Woonsocket witnessed the marriage of Miss Susan Elizabeth Thayer and Mr. Clair Leslie Hawley, which took place last Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mr. William E. Thayer, uncle of the bride, 191 Melrose street, Auburndale. Rev. Edwin F. Snell of the Baptist church West Newton, performed the ceremony at two o'clock and the happy couple held a reception thereafter. The bride was gowned in white nun's veiling over white tulle and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Ethel I. Hawley of Fitchburg, sister of the groom, dressed in pink crepe de chine over pink tulle, was the maid of honor, and Miss Ethel M. Wright of South Weymouth and Miss Edith Hawley Foster of Fitchburg, dressed in white organdie were the bridesmaids. The guests were ushered by Messrs Henry P. Foster of Springfield, Elwyn C. Thayer and Lloyd S. Thayer of Cambridge and Dr. Fenimore S. Andrews of Quincy.

After a wedding trip to New York and Washington Mr. and Mrs. Hawley will reside at 789 Columbia Road, Dorchester.

PAUL-MERCHANT.

Miss Agnes Symonds Merchant, the daughter of Mr. Edward S. Merchant of Sewall street, West Newton, was married last Tuesday evening to Dr. Luther Gordon Paul, of Boston, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Paul of Newton Centre. The knot was tied at 7:30 o'clock, the Rev. Julian C. Jaynes of the West Newton Unitarian church officiating, and was followed by a reception until 10 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Paul being assisted in receiving by Mr. Merchant and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Paul.

The bride was gowned in white messaline silk, trimmed with duchess and point lace and was unattended. Mr. Irving C. Paul of Newton Centre was the best man and Messrs Charles N. Fitz and William H. Rice of Newton Centre, Roy R. Merchant of West Newton, and Dr. W. C. Howe, Dr. W. P. Emerson and Dr. W. T. Bailey of Boston were the ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul will reside at 789 Columbia Road, Dorchester.

The Read Fund Lectures.

The Read Fund Lecture course this season has two innovations, a change of hall, and a change of time. Hitherto these lectures have been held later in the season, but this year the Committee has deemed it wise to begin earlier, and the course will probably be completed before mid winter.

The choice of the Bigelow School hall, while a little out from the centre of population, will probably meet with public approval, after the difficulties of hearing in Armory hall are considered.

The course as thus far arranged includes lectures on "The Junior Republic" by William R. George, to be held on November 1st., an illustrated talk by that popular lecturer, Dr. John C. Bowker, on "The Slave and the Jap" on Nov. 15th and an illustrated lecture by H. F. DuBois on "Camping Expeditions in the Canadian Rockies" on Nov. 29th.

These lectures will be free to all the doors being opened at 7:15 and the lectures to begin at 8 o'clock p. m.

When he made his latest speech, Bourke Cockran was still a Democrat.

While the campaign for presidential candidates in this state drags perfunctorily along, that for governatorial honors begins to attract attention. Mr. Douglas, the democratic standard bearer, is so well known,
from his years of extensive advertising, that he will probably receive a large vote. This fact must stimulate the Republicans into bringing out their full vote for the re-election of Governor Bates. The record of the governor for the past year has been unusually sound. His vetoes of inconsiderate legislation, such as the overtime bill, and the bounty bill were excellent and Newton should show its appreciation of his course
by its heaviest Republican vote.

Among Women.

The West Newton Women's Educational Club will hold its opening reception on Friday afternoon, October twenty-eighth, at the home of Mrs.
Warren F. Gregory, Walnut street, corner of Otis, Newtonville, between the hours of three and five. Vocal selections by Mrs. E. Barker; address by Mr. Wright F. Lorimer at four o'clock. The treasurer will be in waiting to receive dues and contributions for Tuskegee and Hampton.

At the residence of Mrs. George A.
Clapp on Walnut street last Tuesday afternoon a reception was given to the members of the Newtonville Woman's Guild. The receiving party consisted of Mrs. Clapp the hostess, Mrs. F. T. Benner, president of the Club, Mrs. E. C. Adams and Mrs.
Mary R. Martin. In the dining room Mrs. F. S. Sherman, chairman of the social committee, was in charge and the ladies who presided at the tables were Mesdames J. H. Wiley, A. G.
Sherman, W. H. Allen, J. L. Richards, W. C. Richardson, W. H. Eaves,
C. C. Briggs and E. W. Hopkins.

The Newton Federation of Women's Clubs held its fall meeting at the Central Congregational Church, Newtonville, October 19 at three o'clock.
President Caroline Hazard of Wellesley College was the guest of honor.
Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs.
May Sleeper Ruggles accompanied by Mrs. Freeman, both ladies being members of the Auburndale Review Club. Miss Hazard spoke most entertainingly of a recent visit to Old Cambridge, England, where she attended the meetings of the British Association for Advancement of Science. She described the old colleges and gave some account of their history and mentioned some famous persons who were associated with this university. Among other interesting facts she said that six of these colleges were founded by women, one Pembroke, dating back to 1347; also that the first idea of a college chapel came from the Countess of Pembroke.
The speaker went on to describe the life in the women's colleges as compared with the life and ideals of the American woman's college; how the English women go to college only when they contemplate a professional career of some sort; and how hard it is for them to understand that the American woman may go merely for the sake of making more of herself, with no special thought of a career ahead. In closing Miss Hazard spoke of the pleasure and value of such a visit, but said that she returned a better American than ever before. Several hundred ladies were present, including many guests from out of town.
At the reception, which followed, the ladies had opportunity to meet Miss Hazard socially. The arrangements
for the afternoon were in charge of Mrs. H. H. Hunt, chairman of the social committee.

At the Churches.

Next Sunday a new kindergarten department will be inaugurated in the Sunday school of Central Congregational church. It is intended for children between three and six years of age, whether present members of the Sunday School or not. The department will be in charge of Miss Hazard socially. The arrangements
for the afternoon were in charge of Mrs. H. H. Hunt, chairman of the social committee.

come.

The convention headquarters were established in the Sunday School room of the Eliot Church. Here could be found the registration booth,
a post office, coat room, and a large display of Sunday School articles and books by the enterprising firms of Boston. The place looked like a miniature Mechanics Fair, with its advertising signs, standards and tables.

On registering at the proper booth
the delegates were given a celluloid button attached to a ribbon of various colors, a souvenir program and a souvenir of the Association.

The convention represents 50 districts in the state, with 1909 Sunday Schools, an enrollment of 297,233 persons. There are 72 training schools, 1073 graded schools and 19 primary unions. The home department has 804 branches and 31,409 members.
Over 1500 persons registered and about 600 were provided with rooms.

The opening exercises were held in Grace Church, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, conducted by Rev. Dr. Shinn, the principal address being delivered by Rt. Rev. Dr. Duhring of Philadelphia who congratulated his audience on the fact that the various Christian denominations are coming nearer and nearer together in useful work for Jesus Christ. In this country, I want you to bear in mind, we have 13,000-000 children who have not yet seen the inside of a Sunday school, and over 1,250,000 teachers in our Sunday schools, yet there are 10,000,000 children who do not even know about the gospel of Jesus Christ. There are heathen abroad but we also have heathen at home who are neglected everywhere. There are 5,000,000 young men in this land of ours who never darken the church door.

I mention this to show that while we may be cheered by such a gathering as this, and by what we read in our Sunday School and religious papers, we must not forget the mighty harvest that has not yet been gathered. We don't use the Bible or prayer as we ought. The family altar is neglected, for I don't believe there is one family in 20 which perseveres in the duty and privilege of family prayer. We ask for such little things in our supplications; if we asked for greater things I believe we should get them. And this spirit of expecting more, of faith in a rich answer to our prayers, would bring greater progress in our Sunday school work.

At Eliot Church on the same afternoon there was a children's service, with Miss Frances B. Dillingham in charge. Supt. Kepner of the Eliot Sunday School gave an address of welcome. After an exercise by the children of Eliot Church Roxbury, Mr. W. N. Hartshorn, chairman of executive committee told stories of Jerusalem and Bethlehem.

Quite a large delegation made a visit to the Eliot Memorial where exercises were held by the Newton Historical Society with an address by Mr. A. W. Fuller.

On Tuesday evening two sessions of the convention were held one in Eliot and one in Immanuel Church.
At Eliot Church the delegates were welcomed by Mayor A. R. Weed, to which President Williams responded.
Rev. George B. Stewart also spoke on the modern Sunday School.

Mayor Weed said:
It is fitting that in the name of the City I should welcome this convention to Newton. Parish and town have long since officially parted company, but we cannot and should not forget that Newton was a God-fearing and Christian community before it had any separate organized political life. To the people of those early days the Bible was a daily source of inspiration and instruction. We may not be able to measure, but at least we cannot ignore the importance of this familiarity with the Bible in the development of those ideals of civic purity, good government and responsible citizenship of which we are all so justly proud. Nor is there good reason to believe that even in these days it has spent its force. If the motives for our civic and political activities are to be raised above mere considerations of expediency, it must be because public sentiment is dominated still by those divine standards of truth, righteousness and justice, which find no adequate expression save in the Bible itself. You may know, but I do not, where the average person is to find those standards if the Bible is to become a closed book to him, as it already is to so many. I do know that no where else save in the Sunday Schools is the average person receiving any systematic instruction about the Bible. The parents, even in Christian homes, are no longer teaching the Bible to their children. The schools are not teaching it. And there is little of Biblical or any other form of spiritual inspiration in the newspapers, books and magazines which make up the bulk of this average person's reading. For one, I believe that an era of dense ignorance of this one great source of information and inspiration in the Christian faith, is a menace, not merely to the religious life of the community, but to its moral and political life as well. For this reason, the purpose which has brought this great gathering together, makes this occasion one of great interest and importance, not only to you, who are its active participants, but to all who measure our civic advancement, not by our material growth, but by our intellectual and spiritual progress.

At Immanuel Church, welcome addresses were made by Vice Chairman Olney and Mayor J. L. Harvey of Waltham. Rev. J. T. MacFarland, secretary of the Sunday School Union delivered an address on "The New Man and the Old Book."

But one session was held Wednesday morning and that in Eliot Church.
Reports were received from the Field Secretaries, the Home and Primary Departments Secretaries and the Treasurer. A paper on "Sunday School Architecture" was read and followed by a discussion.

Dinner was served in the Y. M. C.
A. gymnasium, with F. L. Hyslop as caterer.

An Inspiration service was the feature for Wednesday afternoon at Eliot Church, with an excellent address by Mrs. H. E. Foster of New York, a Question Box and a discussion of district plans and doings.

The "social hour and banquet" took place in the rooms of the Newton Y.
M. C. A., where Mayor Weed acted as toastmaster. William M. Hartshorn, chairman of the executive committee said: The supreme need of the Sunday school is a sufficient number of properly equipped teachers.
We want to reach the pastor in this work and to reach him we must reach the theological seminaries.

Secretary Hamilton Conant congratulated the Sunday school workers that they had men in public office, like Mayor Weed, who were full of the spirit of Christ.

Brief addresses were also made by President Hathaway of the Congregational Sunday School Superintendents' Union and President J. H. Wells of the Baptist Sunday School Superintendents' Union.

Two interesting sessions were held in the evening, that at Grace Church being considered by many to be the most attractive of the entire program, and the building was crowded to its fullest extent.

Bishop Brent of the Philippines was the principal speaker and devoted his address to child life in the Orient in which he spoke of the various schools in the Philippines, also of the religious work being conducted among the children there. As an illustration of the many obstacles encountered the bishop stated that in more than one small village it is necessary to have two or more school buildings, because of the tribal relations of the people. The tribal feeling is so strong in some of the districts that if the children are sent to the same school they would probably get to fighting.

A tribute to his work in the Philippine schools was paid by the bishop to Frederick W. Atkinson, recently the superintendent of the Newton public schools, who for four years previously had been in charge of the schools in the island.

Miss Margaret M. Slattery of the Fitchburg Normal School also made an effective address, saying in part:

One day when the leaves were falling, and the first chill of the winter was creeping over the city, when the gray skies and lowering clouds tempted one to look down instead of up; I stood with a friend on a crowded corner watching the constant procession of wealth, joy and happiness of poverty, discouragement and suffering, pass by. There a group of pretty girls, some richly dressed women;

Thereby making the early purchaser feel that he had made
several dollars by attending to his wants in season.

understand why everybody does not buy their coal of your company. Your men are so nice, they don't swear at their horses (there was quite a sharp pitch in the grade of the street on which she resided) and they don't smoke in the cellar."

While there was not any poetry in the foregoing, there was
truth, and it was much appreciated by our company.

Being the same premises conveyed to said
Harvey James by William K. Carnes, dated May 6th, 1887, and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, in Book 708, folio 41, except on the Easterly end, where, in order to straighten the Easterly line, said Harvey James conveyed a small angular parcel of land, Forty-four (44) feet on the North side of it, to Richard Har-back, and there was added to the Carnes estate just about an equal area on the Southwesterly corner, giving a front Fourteen (14) feet longer than formerly.
Said premises will be sold subject to any unpaid taxes and assessments.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

some bright eyed noisy boys, now a finely dressed man a burdened woman, sad eyed and weary, a little ragged girl with a baby dragging by one hand and a tin pail in the other.

As I watched them pass and let my eyes wander over that crowded street, and heard the roar and din of the traffic of the great city again, as so many times before, I felt the thrilling power of the sense of the immensity of life. From the summit of Pikes' Peak one may feel his soul thrill with delight at what his eyes behold, beside mighty Niagara he may stand in silent awe; but there is nothing in all the world which can so move the very heart, as, when standing aside for a moment on the crowded street one sees humanity with all its pleasures, with all its joy of living, with all its pathos and its ceaseless pain pass by.

That afternoon we turned the corner, walked up the street opened the inner door of a large church, and in the dim light of the late afternoon we entered. If you have never gone into your church on a week day, do it. If you have you know what it means. The inner door closes behind you and you sit far back in the shadowy aisle. A moment and the world has gone; its rush, its din, its noisy whirl are forgotten, and through the light of the tinted window, from behind the altar, from the cross to which your eyes are lifted, God speaks and you listen.

As the shadows deepened, some one came quietly in and lighted one by one seven tiny lights. I saw them shine out one by one. I could not see what they were, whether they were lamps or candles, but only that they were lights glowing with warmth and cheer down to me thru the darkening shadows. I went quietly out of the church, glancing back at the door to see them glimmering there, there flashed into my mind a verse: I read long before, in Num. 8, The Lord said unto Moses, say thou unto Aaron, when thou lightest the lamps, the seven lamps they shall give thee light. As I closed the door and stepped out into the chill, the gloom, the need, I said to myself, I will, Oh I will, I haven't a very big candlestick the lamps are small but I will light them one by one, I certainly will. I have tried. I have come tonight to ask you who have never tried; to ask you who have tried and discouraged by the weakness of the light and the power of the darkness have let them go out.

See here it stands, the teacher's candlestick, invisible to other eyes. Perhaps in some little country church, out yonder in the Berkshires, perhaps down in that discouraging class in the Italian mission over there. Perhaps behind the desk in some large and prosperous school. There it stands. Wherever it is, let us light the lamps.

Here is one. Its name is knowledge. 1 Knowledge of children. 2 Knowledge of material. 3 Training. 4 Example. 5 Sympathy. 6 Originality. 7 Earnestness or Sane Enthusiasm.

8 Faith. And now the last one, the central one. I will call it Faith. When that lamp dies down, when that light goes out "The Teacher's Candlestick" is useless. All the other lamps will burn low and one by one go out. There is poor teaching in the Sunday School; there are unsatisfactory lessons for children, there is indifference on the part of parents, a tendency to forget the Sabbath, wickedness everywhere in the world, the pressure of life is heavy, time is all too short. We might go on piling up the difficulties, the reasons, the excuses which meet us in religious training of the young today. Pile them up. Heap them high, and then turn your back upon them and light your lamp, Faith. How it shines out now. You can see in the brightening rays, hospitals, fresh air funds, homes for neglected and sin cursed, great conventions of the world's thinkers striving to bring about the peace for which Christ came, noted educators and theologians in session, striving to plan ways to bring moral education to every man. Ah, the lamp of faith, what would we do with our Teachers Candlestick were it not for thee. All through the ages it has shone. Kept burning through the last dark years of Roman rule, it lighted the way to the Christ Child's manger. When the Church of Rome forgot her mission and yielded to the greed of gold, it glowed until its tiny beam reached Luther's monastery. When the hard law of the righteous Puritan forgot Love, it shone steadily on until a never deeper, more human brotherhood was born. It is shining still. It will meet your problems and mine if we keep it burning.

Next Sunday there will come into your class of whatever grade, the same restless little feet, the same mischievous dancing eyes, the same indifferent faces, weak wills, and distorted characters. Light your lamps one by one. Never let yourself think for one instant, as you remember this convention, that you lack training, knowledge, talent. Light YOUR lamps. If the light seems feeble, remember that in his vision, Zachariah saw the two olive trees feeding the lamps upon the golden candlestick. You may see your Father's Love, boundless, resistless, infinite waiting to supply your tiniest lamps.

The little boy of whom Mr. Spear tells us, waking suddenly in the night was afraid of the dark, called out, and his father answered him, telling him to lie down and go to sleep. In a moment the little fellow called out again and said "Father is your face turned toward me?" In response to his father's "Yes" he cuddled down and fell asleep. Oh, men and women, let us remember that wherever we may be in difficulty, puzzled, in the dark with our problems: because of his love the Father's face is ever turned towards us.

As Browning has so beautifully said it for us: "Would I fail, in my impotent yearning, to do all for this man, And dare doubt, He alone shall not help him, who alone can? Would I suffer for Him that I love So wouldst Thou, so will Thou! So shall crown thee, the topmost inflexible and upturned crown. And Thy love, fill, infinite wholly Nor leave up nor down, one spot for thy creature to stand in."

In the power of that love and for the sake of those we want to help let us go home and light the lamps upon the teacher's candlestick, one by one.

At Eliot Church, Mrs. Foster made a second address and was followed by President E. Y. Mullins of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Thursday morning, the Graded School Session was held at Eliot Church with an address by Prof. H. H. Horne of Dartmouth and a discussion on the reasons and results of grading. In the afternoon, the Methodist Church was occupied with the Home Dept. session, with addresses and talks by Miss M. G. Griggs of Worcester, Rev. E. B. Dolan, of Wales, and Rev. Arthur St. James. A feature of this session was the ten minute reports from correspondents.

At Immanuel Church the Elementary Department held its session, opening with a practical talk by Mrs. Foster, and with addresses by Frederick T. Bailey on the blackboard, and Mrs. Bertha V. Borden of Fall River.

The Advanced Department at Eliot Church, and the Librarians held a conference at Grace Church.

Tell Us When You're Ready, Teddy.

When Teddy was down at San Juan A-fighting the proud Spanish Don, And heard the mad pop of the guns on the top Of the hill that the forts stood upon, He said to his boys: "This is hot; We're likely to die on the spot!" But they gave him a cheer that was bully to hear— And at once this brave answer he got:

CHORUS.
"Tell us when you're ready, Teddy— Ready for the fray!
We'll take part in all the fighting— help you to win the day!
Wild and woolly, hard to carry— We'll be there, you needn't worry, If you will tell us when you're ready, Teddy— Ready for the fray!"

When Teddy makes ready to bat, He takes off his coat and his hat; Then lines a hot one, and he scores a home-run— And the players all know where he's at.
But Democrats chasing the ball Trip up one another and fall, And people exclaim: "Hully-gee, what a game! Why, those Democrats can't play at all!"

CHORUS.
"Tell us when you're ready, Teddy— Ready at the bat!
We'll be there to do the shouting; we know what you're at!

Now Teddy's expecting our aid In a game such as never was played; Each player malign in the enemy's line Is attempting to make him afraid. But then he'll stand up to the fight— Stand up for the truth and the right; And each loyal friend of our hero should send Him this message of manhood and might:

CHORUS.
"Tell us when you're ready, Teddy— Ready for the fray!
We'll be there to do the voting on election day

James Ball Naylor.

Political Notes.

It is admitted that Parker's letter of acceptance failed to put any ginger in the campaign. Maybe Watson's letter of acceptance will supply the flavor.

Judge Parker wants a navy of respectable but not menacing proportions. Like Mary Jane.

Parker is not so big that he can hide that Hill looming up behind him.

The Democrats want us to believe that what Judge Parker says is so, because he says it's so, even if it ain't so.

About the only use the Parker campaign is now is to provide places for the Bryan men who need a job, and it will not do that if the funds give out.

A Democratic worker is said to have admitted in an unguarded moment that a miracle is the only hope for his party this year. A Balaam miracle?

It might be a good thing to interview Burton and Machen about the President's convictions. They know he has some.

It is a pity that some of these safe and sane Democrats are not also nice and clean.

If the Democratic party had any sense of humor it could get a good deal of fun out of a mirror just now.

The Republicans have not yet been reduced to forging Parker letters for fake campaign arguments.

Judge Parker apparently believes that language was made to conceal thought.

If protection is a robbery, what is old Mr. Henry Davis doing? Compounding a robbery?

We're told that the Republican party is inoculated with the microbe of imperialism. Boil the party.

The Democratic concert of the powers is thus far chiefly remarkable for encores, given without request.

Theodore Roosevelt's record is not one of the photographic kind.

Commentum: Why is the Democrat who backs on Parker like a postage stamp? Because he is bound to be first licked and then stuck.

A white man has been lynched in South Carolina for the fourth murder he committed, but the next to the last one was "only a nigger."

After all, isn't it a fairly good commentary on Roosevelt that half the trusts are said by his opponents to be lining up against him because they are afraid of him, and the other half tumbling over themselves to make friends with him for the same reason.

Nobody is getting excited over this campaign. The only question is whether the Democrats will get anything at all.

Candidate Parker denounces "political oligarchy." Looks like a direct thrust at Tammany.

At the socialist convention in Stoughton, Oct. 6, the Rev. George E. Littlefield of Westwood was nominated for congress.

Mr. Frederick W. Stone of Ward One has consented to stand for the position of alderman at large now filled by Alderman Barber.

City Messenger Joseph D. Wellington who celebrated his eightieth birthday last Saturday was pleasantly surprised that morning by his friends in the board of aldermen and City Hall. Mayor Weed in the presence of the city officials presented Mr. Wellington with a purse containing $100.

Letter to Peter McVicar, Auburndale.

Dear Sir: Good yarn! How we got our agent at Delhi, N. Y.

Gladstone and Paine were agents for ———; we wasn't tell names. We wanted 'em. Paine was painting his big Colonial house. Said it took 10 gallons of white for the trim.

We sent him 10 gallons and said: if you get it all on, no pay; if you have any left, return it and pay for the rest. Agreed.

He returned four gallons and took the agency. Four or five years ago, He knows now that his old paint was and is adulterated; that's why it took ten gallons to equal six of ours.

Go by the name; there is but one name to go by; Devco lead-and-zinc.

Yours truly, F. W. Devco & Co.

WHAT A CHANGE WOULD MEAN.

When the voters of the United States are asked to elect Alton B. Parker to succeed Theodore Roosevelt as President of the United States on the 4th of next March, it must be remembered that they are asked to supplant a Republican administration by a Democratic administration. The change will not only be from Roosevelt to Parker, but we will have the Cabinet headed by John Hay succeeded by a Cabinet headed by David B. Hill or some other Democratic demagogue; we will have our Minister to England and our Minister to France and all the Ambassadors and Ministers and Consuls now working for the glory of the United States succeeded by the henchmen who are now working so desperately to elect the Democratic candidate. We shall have the postmasters throughout the country and collectors and other officials, including United States District Attorneys, succeeded by a herd of inexperienced spoils-seeking supporters of the Democratic ticket, hanging on simply for what there is in it. There never was a time in the history of our country when its affairs were better administered, when its various offices from the highest to the humblest were conducted by more intelligent, more able and more patriotic citizens than is the case in this year of our Lord nineteen hundred and four.

It would be well for the American citizen to pause and give this matter thought before he decides to cast his vote for a change of administration next November. It will not be a change simply from Roosevelt to Parker, it will be a change from Republicanism to Democracy. Such a change was made only a few years ago when we changed from Harrison to Cleveland, and from a well trained crew of Republican patriots to a band of inexperienced and bungling Democrats. The result is too well remembered to need elaboration. We changed from prosperity and progress to poverty and bankruptcy and commercial disaster from one end of the land to the other. The lesson should have been well learned and the American voter will hardly want to repeat that experience by casting his vote on the 8th of next November for Mr. Parker and the men that he would place in power over the business interests of this gloriously progressive nation.

At the United Commercial Travelers' Fair now in progress at Mechanics Hall, Boston, The Boston Herald has installed a unique show in the form of an "L" station. Owing to its central location on Herald Square it is the most convenient place for friends to rendezvous. The Evening Edition of The Boston Herald has been gradually changed into a new paper, distinct though not separate from the morning edition. As the latter is a man's paper, the former is a woman's. A bright, clean, chatty home paper. What with its lighter makeup and brighter tone, The Boston Herald's evening edition is becoming a great favorite with women readers, as the morning edition always has been with the men. Its woman's page, continued and short stories, genteel humor, clean puzzles and other special features make The Boston Herald's evening edition a favorite for home reading. Of course it has all of the latest market and sporting news to interest the men and boys.

Is there anything which is more important to the health of the inmates of every home throughout this land than the question of cleanliness? Soap leaves greasy deposits between the cracks of the floors, crevices, nooks and corners about the sink, closets, etc., which are ideal spots for the development of bacteria. SULPHONAPHTHOL is a liquid used in place of soap, and gives a condition of cleanliness which is the highest point reached in home sanitation today.

At the Churches.

Dr. John Wright, of St. Paul, Minn., a well known writer and speaker in the West is to officiate in Grace Church on Sunday morning. At light Bishop Brent is to tell his most interesting story of the Philippines. All the seats are free.

The following officers of Eliot church were recently elected: clerk, C. B. Allen; assistant clerk, E. V. Grallit; treasurer, G. N. Putnam; auditor, E. E. Kent; councillor for 2 years, E. D. Conant; trustee for 5 years, J. H. Nichols; deaconess for 4 years, Mrs. J. H. Robinson.

At a recent annual meeting of the Woman's Guild connected with St. John's Church, Newtonville, the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. E. H. York; vice president, Mrs. J. H. Literary Notes.

"A Square Deal for Every Man,"—twenty pages of epigrams culled from President Roosevelt's state papers and public addresses—is the unique feature of the National Magazine for October. Acquired at the last moment, too late for inclusion in the body of the magazine, it was tucked away in the advertising section, with a full-page portrait of Robert J. Thompson, the compiler, and another of the president and his four sons. Nowhere else has Rooseveltism been so boiled down to its essence. The result is truly, what Mr. Thompson calls it, "a self-delineation of his character and ideals."

The number opens with a frontispiece showing Messrs. Parker and Davis "looking pleasant" for the National's photographer, Mr. G. V. Buck—a very jolly and attractive picture of the democratic nominees. Frank Putnam discusses the national campaign and the problem of negro disfranchisement. Senator Hoar at Home is a delightful, timely account of a visit by Mary Caroline Crawford to the Grand Old Man of the United States senate, among his beloved books, pictures and historic relics at Worcester, Massachusetts. The special articles range from Berlin's Unique Printing Telegraph to Mr. Lane's discussion of the Bible in the light of scientific inquiry, and from Departing Guests, an out-of-door paper, to Beauties of the American Stage, three portraits with pithy biographic sketches. Behind the Veil in Russia gives glimpses of the Russian capital in war time, and Loyalty in Love and War, a Japanese story, discloses the springs of Japanese power in the vast conflict now raging in Manchuria. Mr. Chapelle discourses of the World's Fair, of politics, of the Grand Army encampment in Boston, and other public matters—his letter being lavishly illustrated with new and taking photographs—portraits and snapshots—to be found nowhere but in the National. The fiction and poetry of the number are genuine and distinctly readable. Taken all in all, a warm and genial humanity alternates with a gay and sprightly humor in the pages of the National for October—a magazine not wholly unworthy the distinction which Mr. Blumenthal claims for it in his novel cover design—The Voice of the Nation.

Newton's bright attorney-at-law, W. F. Garcelon, Esq., must feel well pleased with his political labors this fall. He was a hard worker for Capt Weeks and won out, and at once commenced to look after Senator Brewster's interest in connection with the state treasuryship, and although his man did not get the nomination he cannot be said to be a loser, for it is safe betting that Mr. Garcelon did not let them put his man out of the running unless he was cared for in some way. Mr. Garcelon bids fair to be one of Newton's leaders in affairs political.

Watertown Tribune.

Ladies connected with the Church of the Messiah, Auburndale had charge of a tea last Thursday afternoon at Pierce hall, Boston, for the Woman's Auxiliary and decorated the tables with yellow chrysanthemums and yellow shaded candelabra. The pourers were Mrs. N. F. Nye, Mrs. V. D. Baldwin, Mrs. F. J. Ranellet, Mrs. F. D. Homer, Mrs. H. P. Perkins Jr, Mrs. Palmer. The servers were the Misses Annie Bunker, Helen Bunker, Margaret Jewett, Maud Smith, Marion Howlett, Irene Trelawney, Margaret Burgess, Ellen Newell, May Lamson and Theresa Roquemore.

MRS. PARKER DEAD.

Mrs. Isabella C. Parker, widow of the late Charles E. Parker, who was at one time a well known architect and drew the plans for the Boston post office, died at a Boston hospital last Sunday. She was a native of Beverly and was the daughter of Rev. John Jennings and Susan C. Jennings. Deceased was formerly a teacher in the Newton schools, was at one time organist at Grace church and an instructor at Lasell Seminary. She had written poetry of considerable merit and among her translations was the words for Hora Norissima which her son set to music. She is survived by two sons, Prof. Horatio W. of Yale College, Dr. Edward Parker of the United States Navy and one daughter Mrs. S. A. Bailey. Funeral services were held from St. Mary's Church, Newton Lower Falls, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. Dr. George W. Shinn, rector of Grace Church, assisted by Rev. Henry A. Metcalf a former rector of the Church of the Messiah. Mr. Wallace Goodrich presided at the organ and the musical service consisted of the rendering of "The Strife is Over," and "For all Thy Saints," by a mixed quartet and a solo, "Mendelssohn's," "Rest in the Lord." The interment was in the family lot in St. Mary's grave yard where Mrs. Parker was laid beside the remains of her husband.

Alderman Sweeney of Ward 1 will not be a candidate for re-election.

Coming Attractions

Colonial Theatre—Quite the most important event of the theatrical season in Boston is the engagement announced for the Colonial Theatre, beginning Oct. 24, of the celebrated prima donna and comedienne, Fritz-Scheff in a new comedy opera by Ludwig Engländer and Stanislaus Stange entitled "The Two Roses." Miss Scheff, who for several years was the most popular artiste in grand opera, made a sensation last year by going into comic opera and her engagement at the Colonial Theatre in "Babette" was remarkable for its enthusiastic and crowded houses. In one season Miss Scheff became the acknowledged queen of comic opera. She returns to Boston this year in a new opera even better adapted to her fascinating personality and great musical attainments. Her manager, Charles B. Dillingham, chose wisely the opportunity to give her ability as an actress more scope. In "The Two Roses" she appears in the first act as the lively young French-born ward in an old English family, and in the second act she assumes the guise of a waiting maid of an inn. Her versatility is displayed to fine advantage. As was the case last year Mr. Dillingham has given her a distinguished supporting company. The period of the opera, the eighteenth century and the place, Merry old England, give an opportunity for picturesque stage settings which are taken advantage of to the full. The engagement at the Colonial Theatre is limited, and the only matinees are on Saturdays.

Keith's Theatre, Boston, is constantly turning out something to attract attention of possible visitors to the city. Just now the management is sending out a miniature booklet of half tones picturing the principal public buildings and other places of interest in and about the "Modern Athens" to all who take the trouble to write for one.

Grand Opera House—Lottie Blair Parker's heart story of New York life entitled "Lights of Home" treats of more phases of life and has more real heart interest than probably any production of the kind yet staged. There is much comedy throughout the play and many thrilling scenes. From a scenic point of view, "Lights of Home" will rank as one of the greatest productions of the age. The cave and river scenes are veritable triumphs of stage realism even in this age of marvellous productions. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, when this play is presented at the Grand Opera House next week.

Keith's Theatre—The novelty of the Keith show for the week of Oct. 24 will be furnished by Staley and Birbeck, whose musical transformation act has not been seen for several years, and is claimed to be more complete and startling than ever before. The comedy section will be headed by Claude Gillingwater, a well known actor, presenting a mirth provoking sketch entitled "The Wrong Man," in which he will be supported by a company of five people. Willy Zimmerman, who makes a specialty of imitating celebrated musical composers, and who was the most talked about entertainer in New York during the past summer, will be seen here for the first time. Some of the others announced to appear are Prevost and Prevost, in an eccentric acrobatic act; Vera Kling, singing comedienne and story teller Eldora and Norine, novelty jugglers; Lew Sully, monologue comedian, and Mme Chester and her $10,000 statue dog, in "Pictures of the Hunt." It will be the last week for Jean Marcel's artistic bas reliefs, several new subjects being given.

Globe Theatre—Lovers of good music will appreciate the many musical numbers introduced in "The Street Singer" by Florence Binkley and her show girls, which comes to the Globe Theatre for a week commencing Monday Oct. 24. Forrester and Mitthelhalt have produced this musical drama on a lavish scale and promise our theatre patrons not only a novelty but a genuine enjoyable evening's entertainment.

25TH ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Shattuck observed their 25th wedding anniversary by holding a reception at their home on Hillside avenue last Saturday evening from 8 to 10. Nearly 300 guests were present and the host and hostess were assisted in receiving by their four daughters. The ushers were the Messrs Francis Davis, William Bacon, Percy Sprague and Arthur Lovett. The reception room was beautifully decorated for the occasion with tall palms and ferns and cut flowers.

MIDDLESEX, ss.
At the Police Court of Newton, in the District of Middlesex, holden at said Newton on the second day of October, A. D. 1904, John A. Gould of Newton v. Charles H. Hale of Newton, and Frank J. Hale, Executor.

This is an action of contract to recover the sum of seven hundred dollars alleged to be due to the Plaintiff from the Defendant, on the ninth day of September, A. D. 1904, as set forth in the Plaintiff's writ of that date. And appearing to the Court by the suggestion of the Plaintiff, and on inspection of the officer's return on the Plaintiff's writ, that the Defendant is not an inhabitant of this Commonwealth, nor was resident therein at the time of the service of said writ, and that he has no last and usual place of abode, agent or attorney in this Commonwealth, known to the Plaintiff, or to said officer, and that no personal service of said writ has been made upon the Defendant.

It is ordered by the Court, here, that the Plaintiff give notice to the Defendant of the pendency of this action, and to appear before said Court, to be held at Newton, in said County, on the fifth day of November next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to answer to the same, by causing an attested copy of this Order to be published in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper printed at Newton in said County, once a week, three weeks successively, the last publication to be at least seven days before the said day of November next; and that said action be continued until notice shall be given to said Defendant, agreeably to this order.

—Mr. Fred E. Perkins of Newton, formerly of Dover, N. H., was married last week in that city to Miss Mary Elizabeth Pierce daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Peirce. The bride has been a popular teacher in the Dover schools for several years.

—Mrs. Mary Tuttle Bourdon, president of the National Mount Holyoke Association was among the guests present at the recent reception of the Alumnae Association held at the Hotel Vendome, Boston. Miss Grace M. Burt officiated as one of the ushers.

—J. L. Phillips Practical Upholsterer will estimate on your work free of charge. Furniture repaired and renovated, mattresses and cushions renovated, and made to order. Carpets remade, cleaned and laid. Shades made to order. We guarantee all work done by us and at rock bottom prices 244 Washington St., Tel. 545-3.

—Prof. Mary W. Calkins, head of the philosophy department at Wellesley delivered before the recent Congress of Arts and Sciences in St. Louis, a lecture upon "The Limits of Genetic and of Comparative Psychology." The address will be printed in the proceedings of the Congress and also in the British Journal of Psychology.

—The funeral of Miss Emma J. Henderson whose body was found Wednesday of last week in the Newton Cemetery, took place Friday afternoon from the home of her sister Mrs. Charles A. Worth on Boyd street. The services were strictly private and were of the simplest character. Rev. Dr. George W. Shinn officiated and the burial was in the family lot in the Newton Cemetery.

—Mr. Robert W. Lord and others have sold to William P. Rice a tract of land containing 1,500,000 feet located between Kenrick and Washington streets and comprising the greater part of Nonantum hill. It is assessed as farm land with a $60,000 valuation. It is understood that about one third of the area has been under consideration for purchase for the building of a large private school the plans for which have not been made public.

—We are glad to call attention to the continued success of the Algonquin Football Team. This energetic aggregation, mainly composed of the Bigelow School boys, has scored over fifty points so far this season, while their own goal has never been threatened. Two weeks ago they defeated the Allen School second team by the comfortable margin of 25-0. Last Saturday they conquered the strong Newton Highlands team, in a desperate encounter, by the score of 15-0. Paul Cutler, of Franklin street, is the captain and the members are Guild, Dunne, Vining, Byfield, Plant, Turner, Brotherton, Davis, Simpson, Brown, Pierce, Harrows and Belding.

—Save the pieces, broken lenses matched. Repairs of all kinds. Terms reasonable. Howard R. Mason, optician. Order box at the Newton Exchange, 421 Centre street opposite Public Library.

FIRST GUN.

Enthusiastic Rally at Newtonville.

Able Speeches by Powers, Weeks and Murray.

The first gun of the present campaign in Newton was fired by the Ward Two Republican Club last Friday night at Temple Hall before an enthusiastic audience. Mr. Frank L. Nagle, President of the Club was in charge and the speakers were Congressman Samuel L. Powers, Congressman-to-be John W. Weeks and Mr. Michael J. Murray of Boston. On the platform with the speakers and President were Mayor Weed and ex-president Winfield S. Slocum.

A quartet entwined the speaking with campaign songs which were very well received.

Congressman Powers referred to the uncertainty of the issues of the Democratic party, and said that neither Mr. Bryan nor Mr. Olney could deliver two speeches in different cities on the same night without confounding their party. Taking up the tariff question, "Years ago," said he, "ships were built on the Massachusetts coast. There is no duty on ships. Now we can go out and buy them and we sail them under the British flag simply because we cannot afford to build them here as cheaply as we can buy them abroad."

"The best market is our own market. Massachusetts with her 3,000,000 of people is better than China with its vast population. We are great producers and great consumers. The subject of wages has been brought out by the Democratic candidate for Governor, and he is making an appeal to the laboring men for the Democratic ticket. For the last eight years the cost of living has been increased 15 per cent. It costs today, according to the statistics, about 15 per cent. more to live than it did in 1896, which was near a depression, but wages in the meantime have increased nearly 19 per cent. In other words, the workingman is 4 per cent. better off than he was in 1896."

"In this country the cost on an average for labor is about 95 per cent. of the total cost of production. Any change in the economic policy of this country will reduce the price of labor as well as that of the article produced."

Congressman Powers, in referring to the hearing before his committee on the question of regulating hours for women and children, said the states which showed the worst conditions were the Democratic states. He defended his vote in the House for the navy appropriation, and made an appeal for Gov. Bates and Capt. Weeks.

Capt. John W. Weeks said: "The Democrats have taken up the subject of reciprocity. Not that they have done anything for reciprocity, but they made it one of their principles because their principles don't count anyway. These Democratic orators say we are not prosperous in New England." To refute this Capt. Weeks read statistics showing "the deposits in Massachusetts savings banks for the past 10 years."

Mr. Murray's speech was as follows: "It is something like ten months since I made any public utterance on any phase of politics. It is about the same measure of time since I attempted to make a speech and I have not come out here tonight to make any effort to break my new rule. I said to Mr. Cabot some few days ago when he kindly invited me to be present at this meeting that my doctor had forbidden me to make any speeches because of the unfortunate cold that I have been unable to shake, and which while it does not place me among the class of invalids, at least, furnishes me with some excuse to beg off this year from public speaking; and yet I feel that somewhere at some time every voice should be raised in the midst of a great political campaign. If we are not interested in the election to office of some individual who bears the party nomination and whom we have grown to respect and admire, the American citizen can never afford to forget that politics means government and government means duty to every American home and I want in the few minutes that I am going to occupy tonight to say something to the young men who may be present in this audience. Their fathers have been good and loyal and patriotic American citizens. They have been willing in the past to pay every price which time and condition and emergency demanded of them that we might have here in this Western hemisphere the best kind of government, in the belief that in the best kind of government and under its conditions the Almighty would find out the brightest way and the most promising path to every one of our boys and our girls. O, the word politics is so much misunderstood at times, so many men shrink when the word politics is suggested in their presence. The thought of going to a caucus and spending fifteen, twenty minutes, half an hour, in the line, waiting for their chance to exercise the highest privilege which a free man can exercise anywhere in the world, is to them a thought which makes them hesitate; and why? Because they fancy that all is not going right at that caucus, that somebody is there with a scheme and they are going to be led blindly on to the advancement of some scheme which they may discover later and which they have with the utmost heartiness approved.

"One of the most interesting chapters I have ever read upon this question and upon the prime duty of citizenship is to be found in the works of the President of the United States. He says, and with truth, that in every community the strongest mind and the purest heart deserves to be found working among the great mass of our citizens studying and learning their conditions, their circumstances and environment, that by reason of the mental force, that by reason of the character which he represents in the community he and they together working unitedly from an honest motive to attain a great end, may accomplish good in the shape of government. That is the conception of a citizen's duty of the man whom the Republican party has nominated for the great office of president of the United States. That is the pathway that he points out to the young men and with that object in mind he bent all his splendid energies to the attainment of that end which he has in view. Do you and I accord with him upon every question? Aye, that is not essential. He stands for the great vital principles of the Republican party. His heart is as true to the American home as was the heart of the great and peerless Abraham Lincoln. His ideals are just as lofty and his aspirations just as pure as those of any of the great statesmen who have gone down in history and whose names will be sounded with praise unto the last syllable of recorded time. It is the duty of the young man to take an ever-increasing active interest in the politics of his town, his city, his county, his state and his government. All that is asked of her sons is to give to government their best and their most unselfish thought. We who live in large centres know things that are going on almost under the public eye which are wrong in themselves. Tell me how they will be corrected. By the citizen who remains at home, who feels that he cannot attend to the primal duties of citizenship; or will they not rather find their rectification and their solution and their condemnation at the hands of the men who find time to go out from their homes to learn these conditions and then to condemn them with all the indignation of an earnest and an honest manhood. The candidate that the Republican party offers for the consideration of the suffrages of this country as stated a few moments ago is not only a typical American but he is a true and loyal and steadfast Republican. He is the contribution, my friends, which the Republican party has again made to the public service of this country. He is a type of the men that the party loves to honor with its respect, with its confidence and with its great public responsibilities. William McKinley—think of his patriotism and the character of man that he was, brave and simple and honest and true, a kindly husband, a devoted friend, yet he went down to his death appealing to all the world for peace among nations. He stretched out his hand to the miserable wretch that sent him into eternity with a true feeling of fraternal manhood and he closed his lips forever with a prayer upon them to Him to whom he was about to render his final accounting. Is not that a good type of man? The Republican party gave him to the public service of the country and so we might go down the list. And what is a party after all, my friends, but a reflex of the men who make it up? What is Newton when the final word is spoken but a story of the men and women who live here within the city's portals and as they are good or indifferent in the performance of their duties, in the discharge of their responsibilities, the city of Newton becomes known as a good or an indifferent city, and so we might go down the list way back to the days of Lincoln.

They criticize our present candidate because he is not an entirely safe man. Where was he ever unsafe? He was appointed by a Democratic president to the great and responsible position, one of the United States Civil Service Commissioners, when he insisted upon the enforcement of the law and said that no distinction should be made among the citizens of the United States who sought preferment at the hands of the civil service law. Will any Democrat say that he was unsafe in that capacity? Will they say he was unsafe when again leaving that place he became a Police Commissioner in the great metropolis of the United States of America, when he went round night after night seeking evil and seeking wrong wondering where corruption might exist and endeavoring to find it among the great army of men who make up the police force of New York city. Will any Democrat say that he was unsafe when as Assistant Secretary of the Navy he bent all the forces of his mind and heart to a preparation for that unfortunate and miserable strife that was to come later. Will anybody say he was unsafe in that capacity? And when later he was called upon to do his duty as a soldier as an officer in the army of the United States he did his duty as many another loyal American citizen did? Will any Democrat rise up tonight, will any Democratic father look his son in the face and say he was unsafe in that capacity? He has been tried all round. The American people know him. Born in the great metropolis spending his early days in the great metropolis of our country educated almost within sound of our voice going to the great West and living among that magnificent and growing people the pride of our country, coming back to great and important public place. I am sure there is no boy in Newton, saying nothing in disparagement of the magnificent fathers you all have, there is no boy in the United States that would not feel proud to boast of Theodore Roosevelt as his father. Why? Because we see in him those qualities that invite our confidence, that hold our respect. We see in him that determination which makes him cling to the right no matter with whom he may differ and in this respect he differs not from the other great leaders of the Republican party has given to the country. Our friends upon the other side love to criticize and so they criticize the President and they criticize the Congress of which your distinguished townsman was a member. They say for instance that he and his confederates are all wrong appropriating public money in such great quantities, that Reed was a czar and despot. Some of you may have been in Washington and witnessed the tirades of abuse that they heaped upon him, that great, fearless and resolute statesman; and when the Reed Rules became law they cried out American liberty would soon be a thing of the past in the Western hemisphere, denounced the Republicans at the same time because the appropriations were raised to the mark of a billion dollars. People listened. They sometimes listen to these Democratic appeals to tragedies and the Republicans were deposed from power and the Democrats controlled the next House of Representatives and just as soon as they elected their speaker what did they do? They proceeded to adopt in a body the Reed Rules of the Congress before. They proceeded to appropriate in that next Congress just a little more than a billion dollars in money.

Here in Massachusetts they like to criticize. Massachusetts was going to the dogs because the Republican party would not agree to abolish the Governor's Council an institution made up of a body of distinguished Massachusetts gentlemen as a rule, that serves its important functions under the Constitution of Massachusetts and after they tried that cry for a few years without success they drifted on to something else. Philippine Islands a little while ago. The Philippine Islands are history and whether we like it or no the great problem is ours to meet, ours to face, and ours to settle and we will be little less than cowards if we ever run away from any problem that the wheels of time may bring. Wise indeed are they in their generation. Dewey won his magnificent victory that placed us by one single leap in a position of dictator to modern civilization not one rank below it. Nothing but admiration of prowess of the American Commander and his brave and gallant seamen, and six months later it occurred to some little mind that Dewey should have sailed out the day after he won that victory and they have been singing that song ever since, just as they have been for forty years. And I mean no disrespect, the Democratic party like a Chinese god has squatted itself in the path of civilization, has criticised day and night while the Republican party has been writing pages of history that constituted the most brilliant epoch in the march of our own great people.

This young man better interests you. It may be your first, it may be the first time you have to take the ballot and use it. That ballot should reflect a freeman's will. It never should be the weapon to vent your wrath or your personal feeling upon any candidate. Ours is a government not of men but a government of principles and a government of policies and just so long as we remain true to the ideals of American citizenship, just so long will our great government remain true to its Philippines, Panama, Cuba, money question and all the others. Yes, we can face them so long as we remember that the intelligent use of the ballot which is given us once a year is designed to protect American institutions, American homes, American mothers and American children."

FOR GOVERNOR— WILLIAM L. DOUGLAS

The Best Type of a Self-Made Man—Elect Him Governor and Massachusetts' Appeal for Reciprocal Trade Treaties Will Be Heeded at Washington.

The career of the Hon. William L. Douglas, who has been nominated for Governor, is one possible only in such a country as ours. Born of worldly poor and hard-working parents, deprived by death at the age of five of the assistance and guiding hand of a father, he has risen, step by step, to his present position of honor and prosperity. His life work should prove an inspiration to every poor but ambitious boy. His achievement is a gratification to every mother, and strengthens the hope for the future of her own.

The life work of William L. Douglas is unique in that he has been able, by hard and diligent labor to educate himself and rise from a penniless orphan to a commanding position in his chosen vocation. But, above and beyond all, and standing out in bold relief, is the fact that never has he lost his interest in the uplifting of the poor, the lowly and the unfortunate. Not one dollar of his money, he it said to his credit, has been wrung from the overworked or underpaid.

All through his life of nearly sixty years he has devoted his energies to making the world better because he lived in it; to ennobling labor, improving the working and living conditions, and to a better understanding between those who work and those who pay. He has demonstrated that it is entirely possible to employ a large army of workers in a competitive business, pay the highest wages, work the shortest hours, and still attain the greatest financial success for himself and those associated with him. In his great factories at Brockton the average pay of his employees for the fifty-two weeks of the last year was $14.01. It must be remembered, of course, that this sum does not include foremen or any high-salaried people. It represents, multiplied by fifty-two, the average annual earnings of shoe makers exclusively. These figures are nearly double the annual average wage in Massachusetts. And it can be said in passing that this comparatively high earning capacity for the workers is not the only benefit derived from employment by a humane man. The working conditions, from a moral and sanitary point of view, are of the very best.

By the foresight of William L. Douglas, while serving as a senator of the Commonwealth, he caused to be enacted the law creating the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation. He was the first Massachusetts manufacturer to join with his employees in adopting arbitration in his business affairs; and because they adopted the golden rule for their guidance each side has accepted the decisions of that board without question. Thus has he succeeded in keeping his men continuously employed. No strike has occurred, no wheel has been stopped, no door has been closed, no workman has been turned back, no family has been left without bread; but in all this time every man received each week a full pay envelope. The rule worked well in this case, as it must always work well where it is fairly tried, for it depends for its success not upon the rigor of stern laws, but upon the kindness of human hearts. William L. Douglas blazed the way for industrial peace and prosperity for the worker, as well as for himself.

put a check upon extravagance in State expenditures. In him the people will find an untried man, but one whose ripe judgment affords ample guaranty of wise and economical administration.

If he is elected, every legislative act will receive the careful consideration of a trained business man—one who has been employee and employer—one who knows exactly the situation and necessities of both, and whose honesty and judgment will be trusted by both. In him both employer and employee will find a harmonizer, a conciliator, a true friend.

William L. Douglas is a man of the people and for the people. He is conservative, but he loves mankind more than he loves money. His judgment is courted by the largest business concerns in the world. He has long been a leader in the movement to secure for New England the markets that are hers by natural right. He has worked earnestly to secure a reciprocity treaty with our Canadian neighbors on the north, that we might extend our markets and better employ our labor.

In him the business interests of the Commonwealth will find a strong believer in reciprocity with Canada in competitive products—one who will stand squarely upon the clear and unequal platform adopted by the convention which nominated him—a reciprocity plank in marked contrast to the work of the master jugglers of the opposition. In him the people will find a valiant champion of tariff reform that will reduce the cost of living to our people and give wider markets to our manufacturers.

His ability to manage an enormous commercial enterprise successfully is Mr. Douglas's best recommendation to the voters of the State, that he could fill the position of chief executive of the Commonwealth with marked ability and success. The brain that gives a business of over six millions of dollars a year its impetus would be worth much at the head of the affairs of the Commonwealth. The people of the State could not hire, for money, a man of such ability to be the business manager. But they can elect him. It is this ability for judging men and measures, this ability to grasp situations and analyze them, and this marvelous power for organization and executive direction that he has shown in his business and public life that will induce so many members of other parties to vote for him for Governor of Massachusetts this year.

We are now at the parting of the ways. Unless the true road is taken, Massachusetts industries will rapidly decay. The hour has arrived when a leader is needed. The leader is at hand, ready to go forward. Our leader, William L. Douglas, was born in the historic town of Plymouth 50 years ago. He began life's struggle at the age of seven years, attending school in the intervals of work and pursuing both studies and labor with that characteristic zeal which has since brought him such large rewards. In his career is exemplified every phase of industrial life, for at the age of 18 he had been apprentice, journeyman, foreman and proprietor. The business he then established has been successful, and to-day has grown to immense proportions.

In the domestic circle and in the sphere of charity he has exhibited the traits which ennoble the life of man. No better definition of the term "self-made man" can be found than in his career. Successful in his private business, he possesses in a high degree that public spirit upon which the well-being of every community so largely depends. He has represented his district in the House and in the Senate, and has served his city as councilman and mayor. He has been thrice a delegate to national conventions. No public task was ever shirked by him; no public call was ever left unanswered.

Mr. Douglas is a quiet, unassuming gentleman. Unspoiled by business success, the possession of millions, or the honors that have been his in public life, fealty to his home and the members of his family always has been and is to-day the mainspring of his life.

His philanthropy is well known. He assists with a liberal hand when asked of the worthiness of the object, and, although he has shown this side of his character in a number of public ways, only he and his devoted wife know the hundreds of other cases in which their wealth has been used to help others.

His nearly sixty years of life are unmarred by any selfish act; he believes in the greatest good to the greatest number; he believes in Massachusetts and wants to preserve and extend her industries. This can be accomplished by making of Massachusetts a doubtful political State, to the end that our appeal for justice at Washington will be heeded. In every grinding struggle of life William L. Douglas has passed the goal successfully. He has not failed yet. Men of Massachusetts, give him your support for Governor and he will not fail you now.

Newton Club

The Entertainment Committee have issued the fixture card for the coming season and they have surely provided a feast of good things for the club members. A series of club dinners with notable speakers is the most striking feature for the season, and that for tomorrow evening with "Reciprocity" for its keynote, will worthily uphold the standard set by the recent dinner to Senator Lodge. Others to come are in honor of our Congressman and State officers and Railroad Presidents.

The ladies are well looked after as usual and their matinees and other entertainment are numerous and of high standard.

BAD ACCIDENT.

Rear End Collisions on Boylston St.

Many Hurt on Boston & Worcester Street Railway.

A serious accident occurred at 2:40 o'clock last Saturday afternoon on the Boston and Worcester street railway in which fourteen persons were more or less hurt and five of whom were removed to the Hospital.

The collision happened a short distance this side of the Brookline line. Car No. 107 from Worcester for Boston, with about sixty passengers on board, was at the foot of a steep hill changing crews. Car No. 85, from South Framingham for Boston, descended the hill. The motorman, M. Nosworthy, endeavored to stop his car, but because of leaves on the track, was unable to do so. The heavy car, carrying some twenty-five passengers, crashed into the car at the foot of the hill, practically destroying both cars.

Hardly had the injured been taken from the wrecked cars when down the incline came a car numbered 63, in charge of motorman Whitney and conductor Banfill. With horror the spectators saw it crash into the rear of car No. 85, the one which had run into No. 107.

Before the shock from that collision was over, down the grade came still another wild car, in charge of motorman Newbrigen and conductor Clark, and this ran into No. 63.

When the first collision occurred, torpedoes were at once placed on the inbound rail to stop all incoming cars. Motorman Whitney heard these torpedoes explode when his car arrived at the top of the incline, some half hour after the first collision. He was about to stop, when, looking backward, he saw another car coming on, and letting go his brakes he coasted down at full speed into the other two wrecked cars, followed by car No. 111 which neither torpedoes, red flags, brakes and all other safety appliances could stop.

Those injured were Warren H. Hood, New Bedford, compound fracture of right leg; Mrs. L. B. Miller, Framingham, right ankle fractured; John DiAngi, Upper Falls, face cut; Arlo Olden, Upper Falls, shock, cuts and bruises, and Miss Amy McCarthy, South Framingham, shock.

These persons were all taken to the Hospital from which Miss McCarthy was discharged Saturday evening. Mrs. Thompson of Upper Falls was badly bruised and suffered from the shock and Miss H. F. Hurley of Newton Centre received numerous bruises and were taken to their homes, while Mrs. A. H. Simpson of Worcester who was injured in the knee rendered invaluable service to the wounded until the physicians arrived.

E. P. Shaw Jr., general superintendent of the line, said in explanation of the accident:

Newton Republicans will cast a larger majority this fall for their party ticket than ever before. A happy combination of candidates and of hard work by the various ward committees will bring about this highly desirable result. Word has been received recently that a very large percentage of the new registration has been made by Republican workers and of the young men who are just of voting age, the greater part will cast their ballot for the Republican candidates.

This city will roll up a tremendous majority for Roosevelt and Fairbanks because the President is highly esteemed and our citizens have confidence in his true patriotism. Governor Bates will also receive a highly flattering vote, because the people know that he has given the Commonwealth an excellent administration.
His vetoes of the bounty bill and of the overtime bill are popular in this city, not only for their intrinsic value
but for the courage exhibited in opposing the interests which were behind those measures. Captain Weeks will be endorsed in an overwhelming fashion Democrats vying with Republicans to swell his majority. Senator Dana, who has an enviable record at the State House, and who will be the next President of the Senate is certain to be elected, and Newton will again honor itself, by re-electing as Representatives, Mr. Edgar W. Warren and Mr. James A. Lowell, who have so worthily upheld the interests of the city and state in the Representative chamber.

From the fixture card of the Newton Club which we publish this week
it would seem as if that organization intended to claim the entire attention of its members during the present season. The public at large also are interested in the series of dinners to be given to prominent gentlemen and in the subjects which will be then and there considered. The discussion of live matters by the best brains in this vicinity will enlarge our knowledge, dull the sharp edges of supposed differences and enable all to work together for the best interests of the city and state.

School Board.

At the regular session of the school committee, Wednesday night, Supt.
Spaulding reported on the one session at the Roger Wolcott school at Waban. The report shows that 32 out of 67 parents answered the Superintendent's letter, 26 in favor of one session, 5 opposed and 1 indifferent.
The Superintendent believes that the one session plan at this school is a mistake, but yields his own opinion in face of the strong sentiment in favor of its continuance. On his recommendation, the hours for the first two grades were shortened. Mr.
Spaulding calls attention to the fact that there are 49 registered pupils in the High School who do not have a legal residence in Newton, and for whom no tuition fee is paid. The Superintendent also calls attention to the age of admission to the primary schools and to children who are mentally deficient.

These appointments were made:
Elizabeth R. Gillette to the Horace Mann School, Mabel D. Bickford, kin-dergartner at Jackson school, Mary J. Mears and Marian Patterson at the Pierce School, Elizabeth A. Stevens
at the Mann evening school.

The resignations of Julia B. Park
of the Pierce School, of Leirion H.
Johnson, drawing teacher at the High School, and of Elizabeth P. Dudley of the Underwood School were accepted.

The Christmas Recess was fixed
from Dec. 23 to Jan. 3d.
The use of the Clafin kindergarten room was granted once a month to the Child's Study Class.

DEATH OF DR. SAMUEL W. ABBOTT.

Dr. Samuel W. Abbott, secretary of the state board of health, died suddenly at his home, 107 Hobart road, Newton Centre, about 9 o'clock Saturday morning. He was preparing to leave the house, and, it is believed, was stricken by heart disease. He leaves a widow and a daughter.

He was born in Woburn, June 12, 1837. He attended Brown university and was graduated from its academic department with the degree of A.
B. in 1858. He soon entered the Harvard medical school, and four years later was graduated with the degree of M.D. He was assistant surgeon in the U. S. navy from 1861 to 1864, seeing battle service on the monitor Catskill. He resigned from the navy in 1864, only to continue as assistant surgeon of the 1st Massachusetts cavalry until the end of the war.
From 1865 to 1869 Dr. Abbott practiced his profession in Woburn. Later he practised in Wakefield. He was coroner of Middlesex county from 1872
to 1877 and was medical examiner
for this same county from 1877 to 1884.

In 1885 Dr. Abbott was elected secretary of the state board of health, and here he found duties which were very congenial.

Dr. Abbott was a member of the American medical association, the American public health association,
the American statistical association,
the Royal statistical society of Great Britain and the Loyal Legion of the United States.

Many monographs have been written by him on medical subjects, and he wrote a noted book on "The Past and Present Condition of Public Hygiene and State Medicine in the United States."

Until 1902 he resided at Wakefield, but for the last two years had resided at Newton Centre.

Modest about his attainments and never seeking publicity, Dr. Abbott was recognized as being one of the most careful statisticians on medical matters in this country.

His state reports have been regarded as models, and their style has been copied in many other states. He was an exceedingly scholarly man and an authority on public hygiene. He had the respect of the entire medical profession of the state.

There was a large attendance of friends at the funeral services which were held Tuesday afternoon at the family residence on Hobart road.
The officiating clergyman was Rev.
Edward D. Burr, pastor of the Baptist church, and there was music by a quartet from the Amphion Club of Melrose. The pallbearers were Dr.
Henry P. Wolcott of the State Board of Health; Dr. Smith, Dr. Durgin, of the Boston Board of Health, Judge Bishop, Benjamin Cutter and William Tay. During the hours of the funeral the office of the State board was closed and many of the employees of this office, as well as those of other offices in the State House, attended the funeral. There was present a delegation of six from the Loyal Legion and the esteem in which the deceased was held was testified to by great quantities of flowers. Burial was in Newton Cemetery.

Among Women.

The first regular meeting for the season of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will be held next Tuesday afternoon in the New Church parlors.
Prof. F. Spencer Baldwin will lecture on "Kipling."

will have a whist at the home of Mrs.
F. W. Jones, Chaska avenue Auburn-dale, next Wednesday.

In Bray hall Thursday morning the Newton Centre Woman's Club held a reception to the president, Next Thursday morning Mrs. A. J. George will speak on "A Remonstrant's View of Woman Suffrage."

Next Thursday evening a Republican rally will be held at Norumbega Hall, Auburndale, at which Congressman Powers and Hon. John W. Weeks will speak and Mr. George M. Fiske will preside.

It is understood that Mr. Christopher M. Goddard of Newton Centre is not a candidate for re-election to the School Committee and that Mr.
Albert A. Tilney is mentioned as likely to succeed him. Mr. Tilney who is the resident partner in Boston of Harvey, Fiske & Sons, is a man well adapted by nature and training to fulfill the duties of the position to be left vacant by the withdrawal of Mr. Goddard. By those best qualified to judge he is regarded as one of the leading banking men of Boston, and the City and the Ward which he is likely to represent are to be congratulated in securing the services of a man of such marked ability and fine attainments.

Thereby making the early purchaser feel that he had made
several dollars by attending to his wants in season.
understand why everybody does not buy their coal of your company. Your men are so nice, they don't swear at their horses (there was quite a sharp pitch in the grade of the street on which she resided) and they don't smoke in the cellar."
While there was not any poetry in the foregoing, there was
truth, and it was much appreciated by our company.

At the Churches.

The Bishop of Sacramento is to speak at Grace church Sunday morning. Bishop-elect Rook, who is to be consecrated at Trinity church, November 14, will speak in the parish house tomorrow afternoon at 2.

The Quarterly Conference of the Lend-A-Hand Societies was held in the First Universalist Church last Saturday. Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale presided and 15 societies were represented. The morning session was devoted to reports from all clubs all over the state and Mrs. Bernard Whitman, the secretary and treasurer, gave an account of the work in the central office at 1 Beacon street, Boston, also of the Lend-A-Hand Record. Luncheon was served by the local society Miss Adelaide Bartlett the vice president in charge and in the afternoon addresses on "Peace" were given by Rev. Morgan Millar, Rev. Albert Hammett and others.

At the Universalist church, Newtonville, next Sunday morning Rev. Albert Hammett will give the fourth sermon on the subject, "Great Themes." The topic will be "The Power of Conviction." Mr. F. P. Hodson will be the soloist.

At the Newtonville Methodist church next Thursday afternoon a business meeting of the Ladies Aid Society will be held. Supper will follow at 6 o'clock and an entertainment will be given in the evening.

DEATH FROM A LIVE WIRE.

Stooping for a moment to pick up an electric wire that lay in his path, Samuel B. Ford, an engineer at Lasell Seminary, was instantly killed about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, in full view of the pupils of the school. More than 2000 volts passed through his body. President Charles C. Bragdon, who had rushed to Ford's assistance, received a severe shock.

Ford was leading a horse and wagon up the driveway to the main school building from Grove street, when he saw a wire belonging to the Newton and Watertown Gas Light Company lying directly in his path. The current for the lighting of the school comes in over the wire, but during the heavy storm about noon it had blown down. Ford took hold of the wire to remove it.

As he did so he was seen to slip, and it appeared that he partly fell against the wire. The next instant there was a loud report, Ford was enveloped in a sheet of blue flames and dropped. President Bragdon was on the scene in a moment, and in trying to clear the body from the wire placed himself in great danger. Ford was dead when he reached him. President Bragdon's hands were badly burned.

Ford leaves a widow and two children.

Funeral services were held from the house on Myrtle avenue Monday afternoon and were largely attended by relatives and friends. There was a profusion of floral tributes. Rev. Charles M. Southgate, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated and vocal selections were rendered by the Lasell students. The interment was in Newton cemetery.

Communication.

Editor Graphic:

About 3 years ago the milk distributors of Brighton, Newton, Watertown appealed to the public for increase in the then prevailing price for milk supplied, giving as a reason the then short crop of grain, hay and increased wages demanded of farm hands, promising that when favorable, prices for milk would be reduced. Now Mr. Editor, this and last season nature has produced the very largest grain, hay and soil crop ever culled in, excepting of wheat, which does not enter the milk production. The late controversy around Boston, with the farmers who contended for higher prices to them, and they are the ones that get the hot end of the iron, went against them, and they must submit to the distributors, (milk men). Now I ask for all the Newtons that the milk men come back to somewhere near the old prices of six to eight cents for milk to families. Fair Play is a Jewel. B. B. B.

Tax Rates.

Editor of the Graphic:

One of the worst, if not the worst of the consequences of high tax rates is their tendency to repel people from choosing Newton as a place of residence. Increase of population, and a highly desirable accompanying increase of taxable property are thereby very unfavorably retarded.

I am well aware that the Metropolitan District is committed to the policy of metropolitan improvement on various lines that are in themselves desirable, and I warmly appreciate increased municipal beauty as one of them. Yet the primary distinction between necessities and luxuries is always present to demand attention, and so is the equally important distinction between immediate doing and gradual doing, no faster than it can be wisely and prudently afforded.

On the basis of these ever present distinctions, universally acted upon in private affairs, except by more or less recklessly inconsiderate and self-indulgent spendthrifts, I would appeal to all our more thoughtful and intelligent sociological, literary, scientific, economic and educational clubs, and to my fellow citizens generally, to steadily keep in mind, and unitedly exert themselves to reduce the tax-rate of Newton from its present alarming rate of $17.80 per $1000, to its former normal rate of about $14 on a thousand, or less. This every way desirable result can be accomplished by degrees through perseverance in various ways some of which are as follows.

First honest tax paying. Recent favorable changes in corporation tax laws make it all the more the bounden duty of every tax-payer to pay the tax on all his properly taxable property without concealment or evasion. Second, School buildings while substantial, comely and good, should not be palatial or in any way foolishly and needlessly extravagant. Third, By authentic local patriotism to effectually frown down large real estate holdings of now least settled localities on speculation only for private gain; remembering that the denser, yet uncrowded, the population per square mile of our large territory, the greater the number who can be served by tradesmen and others per mile of road, and therefore the less cost per head for roads. Fourth, By deferring for a reasonable time all such improvements as are not immediately indispensable. Fifth, By every skilled and faithful effort at the City Hall to prevent, as far as possible, the tax rate from increasing faster than the population or than the taxable property; remembering that evident high regard for the best good of all as really the best good of each, best invites desirable new comers to our beautiful city.

Newton, Oct. 17th. S. E. W.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Isabella Graham Parker.

The death of this estimable lady removes from our midst one who lived a most beautiful and a most useful life. She was the daughter of a minister and grew up in a Christian home. All her life was consecrated. She began when but a little girl her career as a church musician, and continued up to the last month to employ her fine talents in the services of the Church.

Her attachment to her family was intense. There seemed to be no limit to her wealth of affection for them. She was not only their mother but their companion in their pursuits, and the inspirer of their efforts to aim at high and holy results.

Her cultivated mind and her poetical tastes led her at times into the fields of literature. She wrote most gracefully in prose and in verse and so reached many persons beyond the circles here who knew her.

The funeral services were conducted in old St. Mary's where she had received her confirmation, and as the sun went down that beautiful autumn day in a glory of brightness of gold and crimson her body was laid away to rest in the churchyard to await the joyful resurrection at the last.

Newton Cadet Band.

The cat is out of the bag, so it may as well be generally known that there is a movement on foot to organize a Military Concert Band of sixty pieces, and the Honorable and Associate members of the Newton Cadet Band will be interested to know that that organization is "the nucleus."

The work of enrolling the additional members has been going on for the past few weeks, but the object had been withheld. It has leaked out to such an extent however that there is no longer any necessity for secrecy. To the uninitiated, a sixty piece band would mean nothing but a tremendous turmoil of sound, for the majority of the people here in the East, know nothing of the possibilities of such an organization, only as they have listened to Sousa, Creatore, or the Imperial Grenadiers. Those who are informed on the subject understand that it is the complete instrumentation which makes the numerical magnitude, and that, even under careful instruction and directing, the proper rendering and the orchestral and organ effects of the standard overtures, symphonies and selections can only be brought out by a variety of instruments.

The reed instruments, such as the Eb and Bb Clarinets, oboe, soprano, alto, tenor and baritone saxophones, 1st and 2d. bassoons and bass clarinet together with the flutes and piccolos, play important parts in the military concert band, while they are largely or entirely omitted in the ordinary brass band.

Mr. H. B. Keeler, Instructor of Military Band Instruments at the N. E. Conservatory of Music, will instruct and direct this local innovation, and remarkable as it may seem, it is asserted by good authority that the public will be given the opportunity of listening to this concert band at the price of the ordinary 16 or 20 piece brass band. Some of the artists will, of necessity, be drawn from Boston, and the conservatory will furnish its quota from advanced pupils, but the Newtons and their environs will supply the main support. Mr. Keeler is receiving written applications at the Conservatory, and the next rehearsal, at 7:30 p. m. November 1, in the old Masonic Armory, Central Building, Newtonville Square, is open to all eligible players and will be devoted to assigning parts and establishing the pitch, in the mean time both high and low pitch will be used. After Nov. 1, rehearsals will be private. The dates and programs for the coming concerts will be announced in due season.

GREVATT-SMITH.

Grace Church, with beautiful decorations of palms and white chrysanthemums, was the scene of another notable wedding last Wednesday evening, when Miss E. Linder Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Bancroft Smith became the bride of Mr. Henry Taylor Grevatt of Newton.

Rev. Dr. Shinn performed the nuptial ceremony at 8 o'clock, the bride being gown in cream white duchess satin trimmed with mousseline de soie and old point lace, with point bertha and carrying a bouquet of white roses.

She was attended by Miss Alice Allen of Cambridge as maid of honor wearing green mousseline and white lace and carrying white chrysanthemums.

The ushers were Messrs Bowen B. Smith, John B. Grevatt Jr., Frank C. Grevatt of New York and Thorndike Whittemore of Newton.

A reception to the immediate families of the happy couple followed at the Smith residence on Hovey street, at which Mrs. Smith, the mother of the bride wore a gown of white brocade satin trimmed with duchess lace and Mrs. Grevatt, mother of the groom, was dressed in black lace over satin.

After a wedding trip to the south Mr. and Mrs. Grevatt will reside at 275 School street, East Watertown.

Real Estate.

Henry H. Read has rented the past week Mr. Levi Ladd's house No. 59 Hyde street, Newton Highlands to Mr. Geo. E. Morse who moves from Wellesley Hills, Mr. Stevenson's house No. 1665 Centre street, Newton Highlands to Mr. E. E. Hovle. He has leased Edmund H. Tarbell's house No. 77 Erie avenue, Newton Highlands to Adelaide L. Webster of Brookline Miss Stevenson's house, 88 Main road, Chestnut hill to Mr. W. C. French of Brookline.

The more recent real estate operations of C. W. Carter, in connection with W. F. Hadlock, whose office is at Hadlock's periodical store, Auburndale, include the following: Sales: No. 25 Rowe street by Russell Bradford to F. M. Harrison; For Prof. C. C. Bragdon to Albert Palmatur, 48 Woodbine street; Elbridge A. Walker, house and stable 346 Auburndale avenue to F. E. Cooper; Charles H. Johnson to Mr. Waring, 373 Lexington street; Rosa Harris to Mattie S. Walker, 278 Melrose street; Henry Gurt to Cornelius J. Houghton, house with stable, corner of Rowe street and Auburndale avenue. All of the above purchasers buy for their own occupancy. Among the rents are 12 Tudor terrace to Robert Bayer; the Dr. Strong house 35 Hancock street to Frank W. Ruggles 270 Auburndale avenue to F. G. Bayer; house 356 Lexington street to C. G. Small; 316 Central street by Dr. A. P. Foster to Prof. A. L. Goodrich of the Newton High school; 31 Central street by Mrs. S. M. Rogers to Frank A. Arnold; house corner of Maple and Central streets to Mrs. Hope.

Street Railway Notes

The traffic on the Boston and Worcester Trolley Air Line during the fall months has been very heavy exceeding the estimates of the officials to a very gratifying amount. The scenery with the gorgeous Autumn foliage has attracted many visitors, and those having business in Boston over all points of the line from Worcester end are finding that a ride to the city over the Trolley Air Line is a very pleasant addition to their trip. The schedule has been exceptionally fine since the completion of the double track.

The Company, although they have discontinued the fifteen minute service on week days run extra cars on all heavy trips so that the patrons have excellent service.

BARGAINS IN USED PIANOS

Many buyers are surprised to find how thoroughly satisfactory in looks and sound are the used pianos that we offer for sale. Every piano that comes to us in exchange goes to our factory in Cambridge and is thoroughly overhauled. When needed, new hammers, new strings and even new actions are put in. As makers, we can do this intelligently and economically. Perhaps a piano made by one of the celebrated makers, renewed by us, will please you. If so you may save $100 or $200. It's worth considering. We will mail you a list of the used pianos we offer if inconvenient to call.

Literary Notes.

McClure's for November is fairly a thrill of the keenest interest in the world of men and things of today. Vivid pen pictures of the two leading candidates are presented—Parker by ex-President Cleveland, Roosevelt by Senator Lodge; the first by the man whose own experience best qualifies him to speak with authority on the presidency, the second a most interesting and searching glimpse of the real Roosevelt through the eyes of his long-time friend and political adviser. More new light, a sensational revelation, in fact, is shed by Ray Stannard Baker's researches into the records of the two candidates on the labor question. Stewart Edward White begins a new serial, "The Rawhide," like his other stories, full of the free air of the wilderness, poignant with its color and immensity. It is illustrated by Maxfield Parrish. The short stories of the number squarely strike the note of the hour. Booth Tarkington draws on his political experiences for a wonderful story of politics with a character creation that will take rank with his best, in "The Need of Money." James Hopper, himself a famous college football player, describes "The Passing of the Vet," a football story of intense realism and power, strikingly suggestive as well as fascinating. Rex E. Beach mixes pathos, humor and tragedy into a moving whole in "The Thaw at Sisco's." The rough, dark life of the Klondike is lightened by sentiment with artistic strokes. A most fetching love story is "Kilbreth of Ballyraggan," by Grace S. Richmond, a tale of charming people and plot all should know. Myra Kelly calls her East Side school story "A Passport to Paradise," and into it throws the rich humor and insight into the life she describes which have characterized her work here. A stereoscopic picture of that most vital of school problems, "The Parent" is given by M. H. Carter out of a long, personal trial at its solution. A. W. Rolker contributes a very readable article, the biography of a New York fire-horse, "The Black Roan of 265." "Out of the Jaws of Death" is the narrative of the marvelous escape of two Union soldiers from a band of guerrillas during the Civil War, by W. H. Sheak. The number closes with an editorial on "The Making of McClure's Magazine" which describes the organization of the famous staff which has done such remarkable work for this popular periodical.

Mr. Henry Haynie of Newton Centre is the author of an entertaining book which has just been published by the Frederick A. Stokes Co. of New York, entitled "The Captains and the Kings." Mr. Haynie was for twenty years, a foreign newspaper correspondent, with headquarters at Paris and his sketchy accounts of the prominent men and women he has met are most interesting. He gives you glimpses of statesmen, painters, philosophers, authors, kings, emperors, popes, musicians and indeed the book fully equals its subtitle of "Intimate Reminiscences of Notabilities." The book is cleverly written and illustrated with 32 portraits of celebrities. Published in cloth, price $1.60 net.

Dear Sir:—
Newton Centre Court No. 201 was instituted in Circuit Hall, Newton Centre, Tuesday evening, with 54 charter members by Timothy B. Reardon HCR, of Lynn, assisted by Dennis E. Murphy HVC, of Brockton, Maj. John J. Leonard HST, of Boston, Charles E. Benning HSC, of Malden, Dennis D. Driscoll acting HJC, of Boston, George E. Stuart acting HIS, of Newton, Eugene E. McCarthy of Brockton acting HOS James Ryan of Middlesex Court, Newton, acting as Marshal and James M. Cannon also of Middlesex Court, Newton, acting as Guard. After the institution these officers were installed: John J. Leahy CR, Richard T. Taffe, VCR, Miss Gertrude O'Brien Rec. Sec., Frank J. S. Foster Fin Sec., James E. Coveney Treas., Wm. J. Higgins Jun. Con., Patrick W. Foley Sen. Con., David J. Hoar I. Sen., Edward McHugh O. Sen., Joseph A. Walker, John Murphy and James Coleman Trustees, John J. Leahy, representative to the High Court; Alternate, Richard T. Taffe.

The new court was formed under the direction of George E. Stuart HOS, of Newton, who was ably assisted by James A. Mills and Joseph T. O'Connor of St. Bernard Court of West Newton and William J. Kent of Middlesex Court of Newton, all three residing in Newton Centre, and they were warmly congratulated by the State Officers present upon their success and it is a valuable acquisition to the ranks of Forestry in the State and County.

After the close of the exercises of institution and installation of officers, refreshments were served to the large number present, representing the Courts of Newton, West Newton, Brighton, Brookline, Watertown, Roxbury, Boston, Lynn, Malden and Brockton. George E. Stuart HOS, was elected "Toast Master" and was in a pleasant frame of mind, as the Court was organized in what might be termed his "territory," and naturally enough he was proud of it, and very pleasantly introduced the speakers. The first speaker introduced was Rev. D. J. Wholley, Pastor of the Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre, who has been a member of the Order for nearly twenty years, and he warmly congratulated them upon the successful organization of the Court and assured them of his hearty cooperation.

Timothy B. Reardon HCR, told them of the work of the Order and gave them as the present membership 20,000, covering nearly all the sections of the state in 187 subordinate Courts; that it had paid out in Mortuary Benefits a little over 200,000.00 in the twenty-five years of its existence, and the Reserve Fund amounted to $133,000.00.

Dennis E. Murphy HVC, of Brockton, gave an instructive address on the duties of the members of the new Court to the Order.

Dennis D. Driscoll HHS, of Boston, gave a short address on his trip to Great Britain and Ireland.

Charles E. Benning HSCM of Malden, gave an address on Unity.

P. A. Murray of Newton, gave some pleasant reminiscences of the early struggles of the Order in Middlesex County.

The greetings of the sister Courts in Newton were extended to the new organization by Richard M. Lyons P. C. R., of Middlesex Court.

Respectfully yours,
John J. Leonard,
High Secretary-Treasurer.

Tremont Theatre—It will be a brilliant event of the dramatic year when, on Monday evening next, David Belasco brings Henrietta Crossman and the entire company and production from the Belasco Theatre, New York, to present for the first time in Boston the new comedy, "Sweet Kitty Bellaire," written by himself and founded on "The Bath Comedy" by Egbert Castle. The present year has produced no new work that could rival even remotely this work of the master hand of the wizard-like Belasco. It is little wonder that he is the bright particular star of his own achievement, and that his theatre was crowded to the doors night after night. Not the least important feature of the announcement is that which promises this quaint, fascinating play in all the completeness of production and cast that has made its New York career memorable. The comedy gives Miss Crossman the opportunity of her life, and she honestly has taken possession of the title "Queen of Comedienne."

At the Theatres

Keith's Theatre—Another long and varied list of vaudeville entertainers is announced for Keith's for the week of Oct. 31. New comers in the bill include Emmet Corrigan, a well known actor, who will be supported by an excellent company, in the presentation of a mirth provoking sketch entitled, "Jockey Jones, or The Day of the Handicap"; Laura Millard, a well known operatic prima donna, formerly one of the leading sopranos of the Castle Square Opera Company, and Helen Reimer, an actress who is known to the patrons of the legitimate playhouses from Maine to California, and who will be seen in the varieties in a series of clever character sketches. Some of the others scheduled to appear are Fred Ward and John Curran, who have a practically new sketch in "The Terrible Judge"; the Maginleys, skilful aerial acrobats; Newell and Niblo, in musical novelties; Press Eldredge, the favorite blackface monologue entertainer, and Collins and Hart, in one of the most amusing comedy acrobatic acts known to vaudeville. The bill is one of the strongest offered at Keith's this season.

Globe Theatre—The most important of the season's bookings at the Globe Theatre, Boston, is the engagement of Walter E. Perkins in "Who Goes There!" for the week starting Oct. 31st, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees. This event is pretentious for several reasons, mainly because Walter Perkins is one of Boston's best comedians, having played special star engagements at the Castle Square with great success for several seasons past. He is sure of a rousing welcome at the Globe with his own picked company in "Who Goes There?" Another feature of this engagement lies in the fact that it will be the first metropolitan hearing of a new farcical comedy by H. A. DuSouchet, the author of "My Friend From India" and "The Man From Mexico." His latest effort "Who Goes There!" is said to be even funnier than his other farces. Mr. Perkins' role, that of a bashful lieutenant, is said to fit his comic requirements better than anything ever written for this famously funny chap. His company is the largest that has attended him in previous successful expeditions of fun making.

Grand Opera House—Theodore Kremer's new and original melodrama, "Wedded and Parted," which comes to the Grand Opera House next week, is pronounced a strong and appetizing dramatic feast. The title is appropriate as suggesting the incidents of devoted but impulsive and credulous love, specious villainy, reckless passion, base treachery and heartless deception upon which it is founded, and the constantly deepening shadows which are lightened by interspersed laughter, and finally dissipated by the confusion and punishment of crime, and the triumph of truth and justice, in the restoration of conjugal confidence and happiness. There are four acts and eleven scenes with a large number of strong situations and sensational climaxes. The usual matinees will be given on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Hollis St. Theatre—William Gillette, presented by Charles Frohman in J. M. Barrie's comedy-fantasy "The Admirable Crichton," will begin a limited engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, on Monday, October 31st, and, as this engagement will positively mark Mr. Gillette's last appearance in this play in New England, the announcement should be of particular interest to theatre-goers of this city. The play is described as a "comedy-fantasy" for the lack of a better term to describe a production which stands absolutely unique in dramatic history. Much was to be expected of any play written by J. M. Barrie in which an actor of Mr. Gillette's rank appears, but "The Admirable Crichton" is declared to be not only the best offering Mr. Barrie has made to the stage, while affording Mr. Gillette a role more powerful and artistic than any of the other creations which have made him famous, and the production which Charles Frohman has given the play is magnificent. For his Boston engagement Mr. Gillette will be supported by the original New York cast and will have the original New York production entire. It is expected that many theatre-goers of this city will see Mr. Gillette during his Boston engagement.

Grey's Orchestra, so favorably known in Boston and vicinity is starting on its fifth season with a large patronage. This year bids fair to be the most successful of this organization. Patronage solicited for dances, socials, weddings, receptions, etc. A solo piano for dancing a specialty. Address all communications to F. H. Grey, Manager, 10 Drayton Hall, Cambridge. Both ladies told of the great value of the flowers and comfort bags which have been sent for their distribution. Many instances were cited where men have been reclaimed and restored to their families. A physician has given an evening to telling the sailors what to do in case of frostbite and other accidents. Any person willing to contribute mufflers, wristers or helmets may send them to Seamen's Friend Society, 281 Hanover St. Boston. At the Home the seamen, many of whom are most interesting and intelligent men, find the companionship which they need when on land, and there the landmen learn the real worth of the seamen. "He that soweth righteousness hath a sure reward" the foundation text for Mrs. Burrisson's earnest words was most appropriate.
